Six Allied Armies on Offensive

Entire Western Front Ablaze As Full-Dress Assault Opens

By J. EDWARD MURRAY

PARIS, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—The American Ninth and First Armies today joined the Allied grand offensive which may result in the final full-dress battle of the European war, and six armies now were attacking along a 400-mile front from Arnhem in Holland to the Swiss frontier.

Twice Honored

Lt. Allan L. Wright, Grande Prairie, who has received the Military Medal for gallantry in action in Southern France, according to word received from Ottawa. Just recently commissioned, he also has been awarded the American Distinguished Service Cross. He is at present in a military hospital in Italy. He went to Italy as a member of the Sp cial Service Force, in September, 1943, after going overseas as a gunner in 1940 and transferring to a paratroop unit.

The announcement that the Ninth Army was in action was the first disclosure that it was on the Western Front and field dispatches said it was wedged between the British Second and American First Armies in the German-Belgian-Dutch sector.

The First and Ninth Armies issued succinct announcements of their new drives which opened around noon with the support of thousands of Allied warplanes and field guns.

JOINS WITH BRITISH

Front reports indicated that the Ninth Army, under the command of Lt.-Gen. William H. Simpson, launched its attack in concert with the British 2nd Army offensive which carried Lt.-Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's troops almost to the Maas river and the presumption is that Simpson's army is attached to

From Cabinet

McNaughton May Prevent Resignations

By R. K. CARNEGIE

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will meet the House of Commons next Wednesday with a cabinet united to the extent of giving Defence Minister McNaughton every opportunity to show how he can provide adequate reinforcements for the forces overseas by the voluntary system, it was learned last night.

Mr. King has no resignations on tap. Ministers who were reported to have favored the stand taken by Col. J. L. Ralston, former defence minister, to send draftees overseas are understood to have decided to wait until Gen. McNaughton has placed his information and plans before the house at a secret session. If his proposals are convincing, these ministers will remain at their posts and give him every support.

ILSLEY INCLUDED

Ministers deciding on this course are understood to include Finance Minister Ilsley, Navy Minister Macdonald, Resources Minister Crerar

Overseas Troops

More Than 400 Soldiers Home For Christmas

By ROSS MUNRO.

WITH THE 1st CANADIAN ARMY, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Between 400 and 500 Canadian soldiers from the overseas army will be in Canada on leave before Christmas as the new policy of home leave is inaugurated, it was learned today.

Officers and men who are to go home in this first group are being selected now from troops serving on this western front, in Italy and in the United Kingdom.

They will have 30 clear days in Canada and it is believed this will mean 30 days at their homes with travelling times, even in Canada, not included in the leave period.

WON'T LOSE RANK

Qualifications for this new leave boon are five years' overseas service. Service in the Mediterranean or on the western front, however, counts double time. After leave, officers and men will return to duty in the normal reinforcement stream and provisions are being made so they won't lose rank.

Premier Denies McNaughton's Stand Altered

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, through his secretary, today denied press reports that Defence Minister McNaughton had reversed his views on the voluntary enlistment system and so advised Mr. King.

Mr. King's secretary said:

"When asked if the Prime Minister had any comment to make on the press statement that Gen. McNaughton, 'committed to the voluntary enlistment plan when he entered the cabinet, two weeks ago, according to authoritative sources, has been forced by the hard facts of the army reinforcement position to reverse his policy and has advised Prime Minister King the draftees are needed overseas' the Prime Minister's principal secretary informed the press that he was authorized by the Prime Min-

Report Shows

Alberta Liquor Profits Highest 20-Year Period

Total profit of Alberta Liquor Control Board operations for the fiscal year 1943-44 was $5,356,106.08, highest in 20 years' operation of the board, it is revealed in public accounts of the province, released Thursday by Premier Ernest Manning, provincial treasurer.

Actual amount of money spent in Alberta on liquor in the fiscal year was $17,230,473, made up of $7,492,678.19 for hard liquors; and $9,737,794.81 for beer, but only over the surplus for the same period of 1943, it was revealed in an interim financial report released Thursday by Premier Ernest Manning, who is also provincial treasurer. The report was compiled by C. K. Huckvale, provincial auditor.

Receipts for the six-month period, which ended Sept. 30, show a net increase of $2,617,972. Largest sum received was $1,000,000 from the Alberta Liquor Control Board, remitted to the provincial treasurer earlier than in previous years.

As a result of this early remission, the over-all surplus figure stands higher at the end of September than it would ordinarily, it was pointed out.

CORRECT PICTURE

By end of the fiscal year, a correct picture of the surplus standing will be available, as liquor board remittances for balance of the year will be lower, because of early re-

U.S. Decorates 4 RCN Officers

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Four Canadian naval officers have been decorated by the United States navy department for "meritorious" service and conduct, naval service headquarters announced today. The recipients include:

BRONZE STAR MEDAL

Lt.-Cmdr. Theodore Nelson Lepage of Vancouver.

Lt.-Cmdr. Wilfred Gordon Dolmage of Vancouver.

Lt.-Cmdr. Lepage was decorated for his work as principal assistant to the director of United States naval salvage operations in Naples. He succeeded in clearing a large pier of many small, foundered hulks, making way for the berthing of merchant ships bringing in supplies and reinforcements.

Lt.-Cmdr. Dolmage's citation said that while attached to the U.S. salvage force at Naples he worked "skilfully and tirelessly" until severely burned in an underwater explosion, and then immediately resumed interrupted operations upon his recovery from his wounds.

SC Leader Says:

Canada Bound To Supplying Reinforcements

Canadians are honor-bound to provide their comrades on the fighting fronts, who are suffering heavy casualties, with adequate reinforcements, Hon. Solon E. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party, said in a statement released here Thursday.

Mr. Low, back in Edmonton after a tour of western British Columbia, issued the statement to outline the stand of the Social Credit party on the army reinforcement crisis.

His statement is below:

The Canadian people have not been given an opportunity to know the Social Credit stand in the present reinforcements crisis. All they have read is a garbled report of a statement issued by me in Victoria earlier this week.

The Social Credit stand is clear and definite. Unlike other political groups, we have not deviated one iota from our stand of 1937—namely, the total mobilization of finance, material resources and manpower for a total war effort.

In the first place the Canadian people should be told the whole

British Advance Nearing Faenza

ROME, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—British troops, pushing a three-pronged drive along the Bologna highway west from Forli, have advanced to within less than five miles of Faenza against stiff enemy resistance, it was announced today.

The Germans were using tanks and self-propelled guns in support of their troops as the Eighth Army drive neared Faenza. A key communications point on the highway 50 miles east of Bologna.

A dispatch said the British moving northwest of Forli had reached the Montone river on a broad front, while the troops below the Bologna highway captured several features, including Petrignone, a mile north of Mount Poggiolo.

Polish troops also improved their positions further south and cleared the entire Florence-Forli road.

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Publication of their pictures yesterday in Toronto evening newspapers led to the arrest early today of two German prisoners of war who escaped last summer from a work camp in southern Ontario. One had been working in an electrical plant doing war work and the other in a fertilizer plant, police said.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police arrested the pair—Friedrich Potrick, 24, and Hans Eultgem, 29, in a rooming house on George street on the fringe of the city's downtown section. Potrick was arrested just after midnight and Eultgem about two a.m., after a tip from persons who saw the pictures.

Americans Land On Mapia Islands

LEYTE, Philippines, Nov. 16.—(AP)—American amphibious troops have invaded the Mapia islands, 145 miles northwest of Biak on the northern New Guinea coast, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

A small force hit the beaches Wednesday under cover of heavy naval bombardment, encountered only slight resistance and immediately began to push inland.

The invasion was made to knock out Japanese coast-watchers who operated warning stations reporting the flights of American planes northward.

They are 400 miles south of American air and sea bases in southern Palau, 400 miles east of U.S. air bases at Morotai, and 900 miles southeast of Leyte.

Meanwhile an American vise closed tighter on General Yamashita's defenses of Japanese on Leyte, pressing to within 10 miles of Ormoe on the south, 14 on the east and about the same distance on the north.

Tense Swedish, Nazi Relations Nearing Head

LONDON, Nov. 16. —(BUP)—Hans Thomsen, German minister to Sweden, has arrived in Berlin to report on the tense relations between the countries, Nazi broadcasts reported today coincident with Stockholm reports of a roundup of gestapo agents by Swedish police.

The Norwegian news agency said in reporting the arrival of Thomsen that he would return to Stockholm soon. In connection with his trip the agency recalled recent charges and counter-charges between Sweden and Germany regarding alleged frontier violations and the Nazi extension of the war zone throughout the Baltic.

Stockholm said Swedish police had begun a roundup of the foremost gestapo agents in Sweden, and two men already had been ordered out of the country as undesirables.

Reds Take Hungary Railroad Junction

By ROBERT MUSEL.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—Berlin reported today that the Red Army had launched an all-out attack east of Budapest and had captured the rail town of Jaszarokszallas, 38 miles from the capital, after a violent battle.

"The object of the Russian assault is to push the German bolt position at Hatvan, key rail junction northwest of Jaszarokszallas, but all Soviet break-through attempts were thwarted," the transocean news agency reported.

Marshal Y. Malinovsky's second army of the Ukraine was swinging the entire front east of Budapest northward in a wheeling movement threatening to envelop the city from the north while other units battered the city's southern suburbs and pushed around it to the west from a bridgehead across the Danube.

Jaszarokszallas lies nine miles north of Jaszbereny, the capture of which Moscow announced last night, and 13 miles southeast of Hatvan.

Legionnaires Urged To Arouse Opinion

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Alex Walker, president of the Canadian Legion, has asked all provincial commands of the Legion to arouse "public opinion . . . to demand full implementation of a total war policy," and to see that members of parliament were approached before the House of Commons meets next Wednesday, it was announced today.

Mr. Walker said calling of the commons to discuss the reinforcement situation presented "a challenge to the Legion to again arouse public opinion as in 1941 to demand full implementation of a total war policy."

"I request provincial commands to both lead and arouse branches in an effort to secure local action from other organizations and public bodies and particularly to see that members of parliament are approached if possible before the house convenes.

"What is needed now is the strongest possible public backing of a demand for the replacement of voluntary enlistments by conscription by immediate use of draftees for overseas reinforcements."

54,000 Japanese Killed in Advance On Burmese Front

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP-Reuter)—More than 54,000 Japanese have been killed in operations on the Burma front, Leopold Amery, secretary of state for India, announced in the House of Commons today.

"The actual total (of enemy dead) must be very much larger as this figure (54,000) does not include cases in which bodies have been buried or removed by the enemy or those who died from disease or wounds," Mr. Amery said.

Fantastic 'Human Torpedo' Band Taken by Canadians

By BOYD LEWIS

WITH CANADIAN 1ST ARMY IN HOLLAND, Nov. 16.—(BUP)—The Canadian 1st Army troops who captured Walcheren Island early this month also bagged 200 expert Nazi swimmers—members of a "human torpedo" battalion stationed on the island to blow up any Allied ships that might try to run through the channel to Antwerp, it was disclosed today.

The Nazis, described by Allied officers as "all brawn and no brains", never had a chance to perform their specialty. They were captured almost at once when Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar's men broke into the German coastal fortifications along the west shore of the island a few miles from Flushing.

The "human torpedoes" are specially-picked Nazis, many of them members of Germany's pre-war Olympic swimming team, whose rush job is to try to attach torpedoes to the hulls of Allied ships. Clad in skin-tight, black rubber suits and caps, the swimmers paddle out to their target astride the torpedo, fasten the war-head to the vessel and then swim away, if possible.

A number of Germans from the same organization tried unsuccessfully to blow up the Nijmegen bridge during the airborne invasion of Holland, and others are known to have attacked Allied shipping off the beaches of Normandy and Salerno.

Before the assault on Walcheren, the Canadian high command suspected that some of those Nazi swimmers might be stationed in the area, because a warship picked up four black-clad Germans swimming in the Scheldt estuary, apparently practicing their tactics.

McNaughton May Prevent Resignations

and possibly others.

Meanwhile, Speaker J. A. Glen has arrived in the capital and Ottawa is all keyed up in expectancy of what next week's sittings will bring.

Mr. King has not disclosed what proceedings he will propose when the House reassembles but one colleague who shares his views on the conscription issue expects him to make a statement on the government's position as soon as the House opens and then suggest if the members want further details and proofs as to the reinforcement picture, then a secret session will be held.

At this secret session not only would Gen. McNaughton be called, but such other of his assistants as might be required. There would be free discussion and afterwards open sittings would be resumed. The government might then decide to call for a vote of confidence or some opposition members might force division.

MAY SUPPORT KING

A member of the government opposed to conscription expressed confidence that the House would support Mr. King's position once the facts were known, but if the government was defeated, then the House would be dissolved or the government would resign to make way for one that would carry out conscription.

Old observers in Ottawa were not so sure as this cabinet minister the House would support the government's stand of sticking to the voluntary system.

Private members will come back fresh from their constituencies and presumably will know what their electors want them to do. They have had three months to survey the situation in their ridings.

DIFFICULT POSITIONS

Some of the members might be in difficult positions. For example a member might be strongly for conscription himself, but know that majority of the voters he represents are of opposite opinion—or the situation might be the other way around.

Private members, too, should know whether their constituents who voted in 1942 to release the government from its undertakings not to send draftees overseas, want them to vote if it comes to a vote on sending draftees overseas.

This is how the vote stood in 1942 on giving the government power to send draftees overseas if necessary:

HINT GERMANS MAY ABANDON CITY OF METZ

LONDON, Nov. 16. — (CP-Reuter)—Capt. Ludwig Sertorius, German military commentator, dropping what was considered a broad hint that the Germans might be preparing to abandon the great fortress of Metz, France, said last night "We do not regard Metz as a sufficiently valuable position to wage a battle to the death for it."

"It is worth, however, a restricted number of forces to delay the enemy," he added.

large. Hack was arrested in Vancouver yesterday.

Both men carried forged National registration certificates and were able to obtain employment here, under assumed names, police said. Fallgem used the alias of Charles P. Miller and Potrick was known as Alfred Jussen. Potrick worked in the fertilizer plant. Mulligen, a hydraulic press operator, had been employed in a downtown plant. His wife lives in Toronto.

Mrs. John Morris, in whose home the men lived, said in an interview that a mysterious, dark-haired woman wearing "considerable jewelry and diamonds" came to the rooming house.

"She said she knew I didn't allow any visitors but she wanted to give them a message. She told me to tell them to come to a room in a hotel and that it was urgent that she see them. I gave them the message when they came home from work."

Flt.-Lt. Smith is one of three brothers in the services.

ON ACTIVE SERVICE

L-Cpl. Gordon Brown, 11334 85 street, and Signaller Ted Brown of the same address, are both on active service on the fighting fronts in Holland.

Earlier he taught for a time at Normal Practice School here.

The officer is a pilot of a Lancaster bomber squadron and has completed one tour of operations and is now on his second with a Pathfinder squadron.

MARRIED IN ENGLAND

He was married to an English bride in England just two weeks ago.

Flying Officer Rayner is another Edmonton-born youth to win recognition. The officer is also spending home on leave Tuesday had not been informed of being mentioned in dispatches.

He attended King Edward and Strathcona schools before joining up in 1940 as a wireless airgunner.

He has been on patrol work with a coastal patrol squadron off Newfoundland for some time.

The officer attended school with Flt.-Lt. Edson, DFC winner.

Flt.-Lt. J. H. Gilmore, Picardville, and Flying Officer D. H. Lybert, Glenwoodville, are district men also awarded the DFC.

Sergeant Ward, who is 22 years old, was born at Regina, but in 1928 moved with his family to Vimy. In 1936 the family moved to this city. Sergeant Ward attended McKay Avenue Public school. He enlisted in the air force in 1940 and received training at Brandon, Ottawa, Calgary and other points. He was last home in June of this year, on a brief leave.

6 Allied Armies Are Advancing On West Front

Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 21st Army group.

Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army struck on broad front after more than 1,200 heavy bombers had carpeted the German positions east of Aachen with 4,400 tons of bombs. The first Allied field dispatches said that "before today's attack" the deepest penetration of Germany had been 11 miles.

All along the front from Holland to the Vosges the Allies were pushing the Germans back toward the Rhine. If they would stand and fight, a knockout battle west of the Rhine might result, but all signs pointed to a withdrawal.

CANADIANS RE-GROUP

The Canadian First Army, inactive since the clearing of the Scheldte and the occupation of the port of Antwerp, was presumed to be re-grouping to join the new Allied offensive.

The attacks in Holland and Germany opened as Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third U.S. Army in northeastern France clamped its siege arc tighter on Metz in smashes to within one mile and two of the fortress city from the north.

British United Press war correspondent Henry Pringle said that the Ninth Army front the first announcement about it since an early autumn statement that expansion had taken over the command.

DEVELOP DRIVE

Front reports said that Dempsey's three armies were now swiftly developing their new drive.

One British column, advancing along the east bank of the Wesel canal was within a mile of the town of Wessen on the Maas river, and to the north, other columns were closing in on the highway hub of Roermund and in that sector were astride the main road running through Roermund into the heart of the Ruhr.

Elsewhere, British troops liberated four small towns and two villages, advancing about seven miles from the original point of attack.

The weather had improved considerably and the ground was hardening. Correspondents said the Canadians were pushing forward to the Maas in bright sunshine.

WEATHER AIDS PLANES

After almost two weeks of low ceilings, rain and snow, the weather lifted sufficiently today to permit the aerial bombardment preliminary to the US First Army attack. Hodges' troops had been poised for action for a week, and went over the top as soon as the heavy bombers had got the word.

On the third army front, the Americans closed steadily against Metz, three spearheads of counter-attacks south and west of the city which reclaimed Fort Hubert and Retave.

Though the counter-thrusts wedged into their spearheads, the Americans still were within a little more than a mile of Metz from the south and within a mile and one-half to a mile and three-quarters from the city from the west. The German gap east of Metz was reduced to six miles by other advances.

NEARING MAAS

Infantry of the British 2nd Army in southeast Holland pounded through demolished roads to within a little more than two miles of the Maas river and four and a-half miles of the Dutch border fortress of Roermond. Heythuijzen, Baexem and Grathen, on a five-mile arc four and one-half to five miles northwest and west of Roermond were captured.

A dispatch from Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 21st Army group headquarters said British vanguards were approaching the last woodlands west of the Meuse. The Germans, apparently under the "stand-or-withdrawal," were offering only slight opposition.

A staff officer told British United Press Correspondent Ronald Clark that the operations were an all-infantry job because of the nature of the terrain and the need of clearing the countryside of mines and booby traps laid by the enemy before retiring.

SEVEN-MILE FRONT

Fighting in the distance between the thrusts, it appeared that Lt.-Gen. Sir Miles Dempsey's new drive is developing along a seven-mile front.

Just north of the Swiss border, Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny's First French Army slashed through 10 or more towns in a five-mile advance along a 24-mile front on both banks of the Doubs river to within five miles of Montbeliard, protecting the southern approaches to the Belfort gap.

Front dispatches said the Germans were proving unable to hold their fortifications in the face of the powerful offensive and everywhere were giving ground. Flooded terrain failed to halt the advances were considered no more than temporary and the fall of the city still was believed likely within a matter of days. German prisoners said the best troops already had been withdrawn from the city, leaving secondary service units to fight the final rearguard delaying action.

Dispatches from 21st Army Group headquarters in Holland said the British 2nd Army attack west of Venlo and Roermond was described officially as "progressing well."

NO COUNTER-ATTACKS

Enemy resistance was mostly in the form of scattered machine-gun posts and there was no counter-attacks had been reported.

While the main attack appeared to be directed toward Roermond, other units consolidated the occupation of Meijel, 12 miles west of Venlo, and Donk, one mile south of Meijel.

The French offensive north of the French-Swiss border got under way Tuesday morning, with an old-style French artillery barrage covering the advance of Moroccan, Algerian and Senegalese troops, reinforced by FFI units.

Canada Bound To Supplying Reinforcements

truth about the present military situation. There is no excuse for any secret discussion of the matter.

ISSUE IS CLEAR

The issue before the country does not leave any grounds for doubt regarding what must be done. Canadians are honor bound to provide their comrades on the fighting fronts, who are suffering heavy casualties, with adequate reinforcements.

Col. Ralston, who had the full responsibility of dealing with this matter, has given it as his considered opinion after a first hand survey of the situation, that immediate conscription for overseas service is necessary. With all deference to the theoretical views of General McNaughton and the political considerations of the Prime Minister, Col. Ralston's opinion backed up by the responsible military leaders in the field, cannot be pushed aside lightly as it seems they are attempting to do.

The result of the 1942 plebiscite showed very plainly that the Canadian people support the principle of conscription for overseas service as they do not favor selfishly sharing the sacrifices necessary to ensure victory in the war.

The division in the ranks of the Canadian people on this question has been caused by the refusal of the federal government to recognize that conscription of manpower for overseas service must be accompanied by the conscription and reform of the financial system to be sure that the material resources of Canada will be used to the utmost for the benefit of all Canadians in the war effort.

MUST GIVE ASSURANCE

Moreover, the people of Canada must be given the definite assurance that their full war effort required to meet the sacrifices of war to defeat totalitarianism abroad only to be railroaded into a totalitarian supreme state in Canada, and that, their sovereignty will be not handed over to any super-national world dictatorship.

Unless Mr. Mackenzie King gives these definite assurances, backed by action, he can expect nothing but disunity and discontent amongst the Canadian people as a result of the situation in which his government is primarily responsible.

Cash Surplus Is Reported For 6 Months

mittance of the million dollars. An interim report, it was said, always is subject to fluctuation.

In 1943, liquor profits not remitted at Sept. 30, and therefore not included in interim report to that date, totalled $1,802,982. This year, profits not remitted at that date were only $849,725.

Cash payments for ordinary services during the six-month period are increased $1,329,722 over 1943 payments for the same term. They include a sum of $160,350.97 spent on August's provincial general election.

License fees paid by Alberta motor vehicle operators in the six-month period ended Sept. 30, 1944, totalled $2,994,263, an increase of $68,541 over fees paid in the same period of 1943, the report shows.

During the same period, fuel oil tax receipts this year stood at $2,-818,130, an increase of $192,934 over 1943 figures, while 1944 Dominion government grant in lieu of income tax was $1,314,848 a $30,029 increase from the 1943 grant. Other Dominion subsidies received include $282,062 in lieu of levies under the Railway Taxation Act; $618,610 in lieu of the corporations tax, and $11,230 in lieu of taxation under the Fuel Oil Licensing Act.

DUE TO RACING

Pari-mutuel fees received by the province in the first six months of the 1944-45 fiscal year amounted to $57,003, an increase of $36,308 over fees received in 1943. The increase is largely due to horse racing in Edmonton this summer, begun again after a suspension of racing due to RCAF occupancy of racing facilities here.

The increase of $158,319 in receipts from real and personal property taxes is explained by earlier collections and improved conditions generally, while Dominion of Canada subsidies paid to the province increased by $45,284 due to estimated increases in population.

The net funded and unfunded debt of the province at Sept. 30, 1944, was $146,731,968, compared to $147,615,908 at Sept. 30, 1943, a net decrease of $884,240.17.

Italian Aided in Escape Of High British Officers

By DOUG HOW

CERVIA, Italy, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The writing on the small slip of paper Ettore Sovera had taken from a tube of glass said his "self-sacrifice, courage and friendship" had been of "inestimable help" in the escape of three of Britain's great military leaders from German-occupied Italy. The note was signed by Air Marshal T. J. L. S. Boyd, on behalf of Lt. Gen. Sir Richard O'Connor and Maj. Gen. Philip Neame.

"I still shiver," related Ettore Sovera as he fingered the tube he had dug from its hiding place outside his Adriatic resort hotel a few hours after a Toronto armored reconnaissance regiment, the Governor General's Horse Guards, had moved in to make it their regimental headquarters. Then he told his story.

O'Connor and Neame were taken prisoner in Libya about two years ago. Boyd when his plane was forced down in Sicily early in the war.

SOUGHT HIDING PLACE

Sovera first heard of them in November, 1943, when anti-Fascist Italians had asked him if he could hide five English officers for a few days until a boat slipped up the Adriatic to spirit them away. Italy had capitulated then. They and hundreds of other Allied soldiers were roaming Italy.

The five Britons came. With the air marshal and generals were two captains. Sovera secreted them in villas around his grounds.

In mid-December the generals disappeared for good. A young Italian drove up to the hotel in a car, told them to be ready in an hour, then drove them off down the coast road to Pesaro.

"A month later," related Sovera, "we heard on the BBC that they had arrived in Britain."

Plan to Organize Workers in Retail, Wholesale Stores

VANCOUVER, Nov. 16—(CP)—Alex. McAuslane of Vancouver, first vice-president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said in an interview here yesterday the CCL has begun a campaign to organize employees in wholesale and retail stores across Canada.

"We have a number of locals scattered across the Dominion, and we are now forming a national organizing committee to co-ordinate our work," said Mr. McAuslane.

"This committee will meet in Toronto on Dec. 3-4. We are also organizing the furniture workers on a national basis.

"A shipyard federation is being organized in the east. It will be similar to the B.C. Shipyard Federation, and the members will hold their first convention in Montreal, Dec. 9-10."

Minister Urges Unemployment Planning Now

CALGARY, Nov. 16—(CP)—Declaring "we must plan our own post-war campaign" because "it is not likely the federal authorities will make any declaration of a post-war financial policy," Alberta minister of municipalities C. E. Gerhart, yesterday told Alberta municipal councillors they should prepare now for possible future unemployment.

His address highlighted the afternoon session of the 36th annual convention of the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts.

So that municipalities would know their position in the event of relief being necessary, he urged that tax sales be kept up to date. Such sales, he pointed out, were not held nowadays for the purpose of putting a delinquent farmer off the land but to keep him on it, the municipality keeping control of things by acquiring title to the land.

NO RELIEF MEASURE

"Never again must non-payment of taxes be a relief measure," he said.

Urging support of the Alberta housing plan in which he said the provincial government would invest a "couple of million" dollars and "hopes you will invest the rest," he cited the United Grain Growers and Alberta Wheat Pool as examples of what westerners can do for themselves if necessary.

"Eastern companies may not care to help us in post-war housing," he said, "if the outsiders won't do it for us, let's do it ourselves."

Delegates passed without discussion and by unanimous vote a resolution asking for the abolition of the social service tax. They also decided to ask the government to establish an agricultural school in the Peace River district and other selected districts of the province without abolishing any of the present schools.

Big Sugar Output In South Alberta

LETHBRIDGE, Nov. 16—(CP)—Southern Alberta is pouring about 1,000,000 pounds of sweetness daily into the sugar bowls of Canadians as processing of the most valuable crop of sugar beets ever grown in this province continues on a round-the-clock basis at both the Raymond and Picture Butte factories.

Harvesting of the crop of 335,000 tons of beets off 29,000 acres was completed early this month and practically all beets now have been delivered to the processing company. The sugar extraction from the crop is expected to approach 110,000,000 pounds.

Under the new Farmers' Creditors' Arrangement Act a farmer may have all his debts reviewed and adjusted providing 60 per cent of his total debts were incurred before May 1, 1935. The farmer's case is heard before a district court judge and decision may be appealed either by the farmer or creditor.

Says Overseas Draft Mostly Political Issue

By FRANK FLAHERTY

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(CP)—Conscription for overseas service in Canada is "Rather a political question than a question of meeting an urgent need," reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe said yesterday in a luncheon address before the Canadian club of Chicago.

The minister, who heads the Canadian delegation at the International Civil Aviation conference, spoke without notes and said he had seen all the relevant reports and figures on army reinforcements but, for security reasons, could not give them.

NOT QUESTION OF NEED

He said he was not expressing any personal opinion on the issue but on the basis of the full information, he did "Not believe it is a question of meeting an overwhelming need." He spoke, he said, for the purpose of giving former Canadians now living in Chicago some of the background on the situation.

The speech was notable as one of the first utterances by a minister, other than Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Defence Minister McNaughton and former Defence Minister Ralston, since Col. Ralston's resignation from the cabinet.

Canada, said Mr. Howe, had as high a proportion of its population enlisted in the forces as practically any Allied country with the exception of the United Kingdom.

The government at the start of the war followed the traditional voluntary system but in 1940 supplemented it with compulsory service within Canada. Under compulsory service some 200,000 men had been drafted into the forces and at various times men had been drafted to the coal mines and other activities.

MAJORITY VOLUNTEERS

Of the 200,000 men called up for the army all but about 60,000 had volunteered for service anywhere.

"Considering that over 1,000,000 men have been in the armed forces at one time or another that 60,000 does not look like a very large percentage," he said.

"These 60,000 men however, have become a great political issue in Canada and an issue that will likely become greater as time goes on."

There had been a difference of opinion in the government about it and there was a great division of opinion in the country which would likely become more marked.

Those in "the seat of government" had to take account of what happened in the First Great War.

BLOODSHED FOLLOWED

Then conscription was introduced late in the war, was followed by bloodshed and "the number of members secured for the armed forces was exceedingly small in comparison to the commotion in Canada."

The government had also to consider other aspects of the war effort, including the munitions program. There was an over-all shortage of ammunition and Canadian industry played a great role in keeping the stream of munitions going forward.

"The government must weigh any probable interruption of production which would follow the reinforcement of conscription," he said.

New "Slant" on Hitler Puzzle

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP-Reuter)—A new slant on the problem of what's happened to Hitler is provided by Willi Frischauer, expert on German affairs, who in a letter to the Daily Herald advances the suggestion that the fuehrer, perhaps accompanied by Goering, is on his way to Japan to participate in a spectacular east-west Axis meeting with the Mikado as a counter-blast to the meetings of Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin.

Frischauer, who said that he had spent the last 20 years observing and interpreting Hitler's personality and politics, wrote that quite apart from the propaganda value of such a meeting Hitler would at the same time be going forward the attempts made by his friend and former aide-de-camp, Capt. Wiedemann, now German consul-general in Japanese-occupied Chinese territory, to win over dissident Chinese forces for the Axis cause.

Antipodes to Gt. Britain Now Just "3-Day Jaunt"

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Newspapers which went on sale in Wellington, New Zealand Monday were being distributed in Montreal at breakfast time Wednesday.

Servicemen and civilians who were in the Antipodes Monday night were set down in Ottawa and Washington before noon Wednesday.

Air passengers from Australia, after breaking in Montreal, were on their way over the North Atlantic to Britain, where they were due to arrive soon after midnight.

The Britain-bound passengers including Flt.-Lt. Nicholas Higgs, general manager of De Havilland aircraft factories in New Zealand —were expected to be in England in just over three days from the time they left the antipodes.

Troop mail and official letters posted in Australia up to last Sunday, were being delivered in Ottawa, Montreal and Washington Wednesday afternoon, and a ton of troop-mail from Australia will be delivered to servicemen and women in Britain today.

Such were the results of the conclusion yesterday of the first round-flight trip of the new Pacific air service of the Royal Air Force Transport Command. The famous Liberator Commando arrived here after a journey of 23,500 miles, completed in four days, 16 hours and 10 minutes flying time.

The outward flight from Canada occupied 56 hours, 37 minutes airborne time, and the homeward run was covered in 55 hours, 13 minutes. The flight inaugurated a Canada-Australia service which will operate several times weekly in each direction and will have connections via Montreal for Great Britain and Cairo.

Only Few Men Out of 51,479 Evading Draft

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police, asked to locate 51,479 men who allegedly had failed to answer their military call-up notices during the year ended last March 31, found that only a small percentage of the men actually were "draft-dodgers," RCMP officials said yesterday.

Only 6,142 prosecutions for failing to comply with call-up notices resulted from the search which was spread across the country but centered mainly in Quebec and Ontario.

Of the 51,479 men the RCMP were asked to locate, 25,990 of them were in Quebec, 9,847 in Ontario, 4,253 in New Brunswick, 768 in Manitoba, 428 in Alberta, 114 in Saskatchewan, 48 in British Columbia, 22 in Nova Scotia, seven in Prince Edward Island and four in the North-West Territories and the Yukon.

The cases of 36,199 men were concluded to the satisfaction of the RCMP and 15,280 still were under investigation when the annual report was prepared several months ago. Later statistics were not available.

The officials said it was found in many cases that the men had not received their notices, that they already were in the services, or that they were dead.

CANADA'S VETERANS

Their Post-War Opportunities

This is the tenth of a series of advertisements to inform the people of Canada of plans to re-establish men and women of the armed forces. To get the full details save and read every advertisement.

Per complete information write for the booklet, "Back to Civil Life."

A Worthwhile Work For All Canadians

THE COMMUNITY'S SHARE IN RE-ESTABLISHMENT

This is the final advertisement in the series dealing with Canada's plans for the re-establishment of its men and women in the armed forces. Previous statements have told of the Canadian legislation, and have outlined the opportunities open after discharge to the men and women in uniform. Cash grants paid on discharge have been reviewed and service men and women have been advised how they may take advantage of the post-discharge program. It is important that these things be understood fully, not only by those in the Navy, Army and Air Force, but also by all citizens of Canada.

ALL HAVE A RESPONSIBILITY

The problem of re-establishment, however, can not be solved alone by Parliament providing machinery and financing. Neither can it be solved merely by the men and women in uniform taking advantage of that machinery and that financing. To be fully successful the Canadian plan for returning its fighting forces to civilian life needs and must have the full support of all. It needs support from employers, and the help of organized labour, skilled trades and other workers. It needs, above all, the help of the communities from which these men and women come.

PLANS ARE WIDESPREAD

As has been outlined, the Canadian plan for re-establishment is no all-embracing that it has been described as the most complete of any of the United Nations. There are cash grants at discharge, coupled with the war service gratuity and re-establishment credit. There is protection against illness and unemployment, and pensions for those disabled as a result of service. Wide opportunity is provided for state financed training either on the vocational or university level, with assistance in financing a business or in returning to farms and commercial fishing. The home owning provinces are generous—and because Canada throughout the war, has guarded against inflation and has financed soundly, all this monetary assistance is not one hundred cents on the dollar. Canadians who have served will return to a nation sound financially.

MANY ARE HELPING NOW

Already government authorities are receiving a great deal of voluntary assistance. Veterans' organizations, such as the Canadian Legion, the Canadian Corps Association, the War Amputations of Canada, the Army and Navy Veterans, and others are rendering magnificent service. Canadian service clubs, and women's organizations are doing excellent work. Several hundred communities across Canada have formed volunteer committees to aid with the community problems of re-establishment, but there is need for many of these.

THE FUNCTIONS OF VOLUNTEER COMMITTEES

Volunteer Citizens Committees are set up under a government order-in-council. They are an official part of the Canadian re-establishment machinery. In a broad sense their function is to assist in the community re-establishment problems. These vary in different centres, but in a general sense the committees:

1. Organize home coming receptions for veterans.
2. Give local publicity to the re-establishment program.
3. Give advice and counsel to veterans on their re-establishment problems.
4. Assist in securing employment.
5. Advise the government on policies and on local problems.

These, however, are only highlights of the work which can be done, for the field is wide and the work is well worthwhile.

HOW TO ORGANIZE

In many communities where Volunteer Citizens' Committees have been formed, initial leadership has been provided by municipal authorities and veterans' organizations. Usually service clubs, business men and other community bodies have been invited to assist. The co-operation and aid of government authorities is available, for the problem of community re-establishment is regarded as a most important part of the work. If your community has not already formed a volunteer citizens' committee, full details and assistance may be secured by writing to the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ARE THE FRIENDS OF EX-SERVICE MEN AND WOMEN. IT IS THEIR DUTY TO ADVISE AND ASSIST ALL EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL WITH THEIR RE-ESTABLISHMENT PROBLEMS. IF THERE IS ANY THING ABOUT THE REHABILITATION PROGRAM WHICH YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND CONSULT YOUR NEAREST VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICER.

Vitamins must TASTE good!

My family loves them in Libby's "Gentle-Press" Tomato Juice!

So I serve Libby's delicious Tomato Juice whenever possible: it's as a natural, sparkling treat, or in cooked dishes. Here's a recipe that's a favourite in our house:

BRAISED LIVER EN CASSEROLE

1 lb. liver
2 carrots, cubed
2 potatoes, sliced
1 cup water
2 tablespoons shortening
1 onion, sliced
1 bay leaf
1 cup Libby's Tomato Juice

Cut liver in squares and roll in ¼ cup flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Brown liver and vegetables in melted shortening. Then remove and add any remaining flour to fat in pan; stir in water and tomato juice. Combine with liver, vegetables and bay leaf in covered casserole and bake one hour in moderate oven. Serves 4.

Libby's is Canada's favourite Tomato Juice because of its natural, garden-fresh flavour, "gentle pressed" from choice, luscious tomatoes grown from special seed, a valuable source of vitamin A and rich in vitamin C, together with important minerals. These are necessary to normal health, growth and vitality . . . to sound teeth, keen eyesight, good digestion and a clear skin.

Quebec or Canada?

Comment of the French language press, on the present military and political crisis over conscription is expressed in terms of jubilation. Quite clearly, the isolationist elements in French Canada feel that the dismissal of Colonel Ralston, the appointment of General McNaughton and the refusal of the Prime Minister to give any guarantee of the use of conscripts, whether they are needed for overseas reinforcements or not, is a positive political victory for Quebec.

Of course it is a victory for Quebec. All this joyous gratification expressed in the French language press is a measure finally of the confirmation of the current Canadian belief that the minority which voted against the conscription plebiscite of 1942 is firmly in the saddle in Ottawa and that the democratic principle of equal privileges and equal responsibilities is being openly flouted.

But the amazing thing is that Quebec, which is louder in its expressions of love for Canada than any other part of the Dominion, appears to forget that a delay in sending adequate reinforcements is going to inflict quite as heavy a burden on French-speaking fighting men as on English-speaking fighting men.

In other words, the French-speaking isolationist bigots are quite willing to sacrifice their own neighbors to satisfy their prejudice against the rest of the country.

For them there is no Canada but Quebec.

Another Housing Plan

Wartime Housing Ltd. has offered to build 150 houses in Edmonton, of the $3,000 class, to rent for $22 to $30 per month. A further provision is that at the end of ten years the city could buy the houses for $1,000 each.

While particulars have not been given out, this looks like a kind of house-building program that is needed. The proposal would go a good way to ease the housing situation, and it is not likely that private parties could build single houses of the same class which would be rentable at the rates suggested.

It is generally accepted that a householder cannot afford to pay more than 20 per cent of his income as rent for a place to live in. That rule is doubtfully possible of application in Canada at present, because building costs are high. But the proposed rental rates should be within reach of enough tenants to make the project feasible.

As the city could buy the houses at the end of ten years, a plan could be worked out to re-sell these to private parties at little more than the set price of $1,000.

On its face the offer is well worth considering, and council will be well advised to go into the matter thoroughly.

Neutral Effrontery

Two items in the news bear witness to what are perhaps the most flagrant instances of brazen effrontery in human history.

General Francisco Franco, fascist tyrant of Spain, the bloodiness of whose career matches even those of Hitler and Mussolini, the man who called in the totalitarian hordes of Germany and Italy to attack his country, who still holds in prison hundreds of thousands of his political opponents, demands a seat at the peace conference table! He proposes, of course, to be the advocate there of the fascist principle.

The second item announces that President de Valera of Eire can give no assurance that Eire will not grant asylum to Axis war criminals "should justice, charity honor or the interests of the nation so require."

It is certainly a queer conception of "justice, charity and honor" that would even contemplate giving aid and comfort to international criminals who have killed justice, despised charity and dishonored honor.

The position of Franco and De Valera is not an illustration of the difficulty of being neutral. It is an illustration of the fact that neutrality no longer exists and that the names of both these leaders can now be written frankly and plainly in the list of our enemies.

To Encourage Investment

It is announced at Ottawa that double depreciation will be allowed where capital is invested in new projects which will be useful in the war effort or in the reconstruction period. On such projects twice the usual depreciation allowance will be granted, in calculating income taxes.

This does not mean that any person or corporation can proceed to build a new factory and count on getting out of taxes that would ordinarily have to be paid out of its earnings. To secure the depreciation concession, a certificate must be obtained from the Minister of Reconstruction declaring the project to be worth while as a producer of war needs or as an employer of labor in post-war times.

This plan was cited when the last budget was brought down, and is already in effect. It should be of some consequence in encouraging the fresh investment of capital, particularly in enterprises intended to increase the output of civilian goods when war requirements no longer dominate the situation.

The scheme is to operate only until the end of 1946 or until two years after the defeat of Germany, whichever date is earlier. The time limit is a signal that increased investment in post-war industrial projects is desired now.

Two Symbols

The rumor persists that Adolf Hitler is dead, ill or insane and that Heinrich Himmler has become actual fuehrer of the German Reich. There is doubtless more wishful thinking than sound evidence behind the notion.

Nevertheless, if Himmler has replaced or does replace Hitler with the knowledge of the German people, a step of extreme moral retrogression will have been taken by the Reich.

For Hitler and Himmler are two entirely different sort of symbols. Hitler is a figure of insane ambition. Himmler is a figure of insane crime.

There may be a sort of spurious grandeur even about paranoiac ambition. Even Satan, so it is believed, has his moments of dark splendor.

But about Himmler there is no fantastic aura except that of the meanest, cheapest and most beastly of human emotions. Certain perverted minds may worship heroin vanity. But even a perverted mind can worship the symbol of treachery, inhuman cruelty and tortuous intrigue.

In short, the elevation of Himmler to the leadership of the German people would degrade them unspeakably. Already in moral poverty, they would become completely morally bankrupt.

A nation led by Himmler would be a nation utterly damned.

Four of the twenty-two forts surrounding Metz were captured by General Patton's 3rd Army, with only a brief fight at one of them. The inference drawn by observers is that the enemy is trying to pull his forces out of the stronghold before the escape corridor is closed. For some one rather than Hitler must be directing the operations. Getting an army out of a trap never seemed to concern him very much.

Many Views on Reconstruction

Hope, Doubt, Cynicism and Fear Alternate in the Public Mind

By GRANT DEXTER

As the war enters the final phase, it is clear that the very word "reconstruction" evokes conflicting emotions in the minds of most people—gratitude, happiness, doubt, cynicism, fear. How different to the sheer elation of November, 1918!

This time, when organized resistance ends in Germany, many will be haunted by the memories of the inter-war years—the depression of 1920 which engulfed agriculture and culture in an avalanche of debt; the ragged early twenties; the boom which led, in 1929, to the greatest of all depressions; the fumbling, uncertain efforts to achieve an effective world organization and keep the peace of the world.

It was Walt Whitman, writing of the first great modern war, who spoke of "the eyes Death and Night incessantly softly washing again and ever again this soil'd world."

Everyone agrees today that the tragedy of the thirties must never again occur; that there must be no World War III. But back of their assertions there is deep skepticism—"How can we be certain" This, no doubt, explains the very many rumor of the end of the war in Europe sends the markets down.

Bearing all this in mind, it may be helpful to make a preconstruction. How can the fears which torment people be banished? How can the hopes for a better world be realized? What has been done? What lines of approach are now visible?

The most common definition, apart from world security, of what is most desired, is full employment. This, however, is a poor definition. What, in the war effort is the greatest possible production of required goods and services. The aim, as Sir William Beveridge has put it, is not the making of work for persons who, otherwise would be unemployed if this were all, then the speediest solution would be to scrap our machines, retire our scientists, make the exercise of individual initiative a crime. It would be a case of back to the premachine age.

What people mean when they speak of full employment is the development of our resources in men, plant and material so as to obtain directly and by trade a high and advancing standard of living.

It is evident, then, that the cries and counter-cries of various groups and parties are confusing. The CCF asserts, stridently, that if only we change the ownership of everything, in particular state from private ownership, there will be good times always. The Social Crediters and other money cranks affirm that if only we would print unlimited quantities of new dollar bills and give them to all and sundry, heaven would be built on earth. Ranged against the socialists, the free enterprise group argues that if only the state would clear out and let private enterprise undisputed control of everything, unemployment would vanish.

These conflicting and extreme points of view obscure the problem. The socialists, on the one hand, and the extreme individualists on the other, are quarrelling not about what is to be done, but the way of going about it. It is a technique. The assumption by the state of ownership of productive plant would not solve any existing problem. All the conflicts—labor seeking higher rewards, farmers a greater share of the national income, and so on—would remain. Instead of being economic questions to be decided largely by the market, the price system, they would become political questions to be decided by votes and influence. Likewise with the abolishment of the state from business. Stout manufacturers who talk this way should read the books of Ford ously. How many of them recognize tariffs as a state intervention and, incidentally, a highly undesirable kind? Do these advocates believe that the state should retire from the railway commission, the national railways, the various boards of control like the railway commission, the grain commission, the hydro power field, etc? Certainly not.

Both these contentious factions —because they are extreme—are an obstacle to clear thought and constructive action. There could be, for example, no greater misfortune than that a socialist-minded party like the CCF should take office at this critical time and, instead of tackling the real problems of reconstruction, become involved in a row over the nationalization of some part of the existing plant like the CPR.

All these groups, and more particularly the socialists, base their appeals upon fear. Unless their particular cure-all is accepted, the miseries so vividly remembered will return.

It is suggested, therefore, that the first essential to clear thinking about reconstruction is to reject the proposition that success stems on a choice between black and white alternatives. It is not a case of either-or. With regard to socialism, it is obvious that the area of state activity has been increasing for many generations. There is no reason to suppose it is going to cease to do so. Rather, the problem is one of readjustment from time to time and in the light of changing conditions, the activities of state and private activity. The considerations should not be theoretical or academic, but practical and common sense.

The peril in the extremist approach and in the kind of fear-driven campaign being carried on is real. In this great venture there will be small hope of success if we are concerned chiefly with handing old sores, if we are hypnotized by dread of unemployment. No one can run a good race if he continually is looking back over his shoulder.

The first need, then, is positive, not negative, goals; not defence but attack; not fear, but faith.

Dogs Go Back for 7,000 Years

By J. Wentworth Day in London Calling

Five thousand years before Christ walked in Galilee they had a Greyhound and a Terrier in Egypt and Chaldea. I have seen them painted on tombs at Thebes, far up the Nile, and elsewhere in the hidden galleries of the dead in that fascinating land of man's most ancient history.

And at about the same time that artists and sculptors in Egypt and Chaldea were painting and sculpting greyhounds and the golden tassel-eared Saluki—who is a Greyhound but lovelier—and those queer, almost hairless dogs which were Pharanic Terriers, the Vikings had a dog when was of undoubted Elkhound type. That was proved by Professor Brinchmann quite before this war when Norwegian antiquarians unearthed at Vistehollow a vast cemetery filled with men and animals—among them four dogs.

So, at a rough guess—for no man may be certain—we may say that the three oldest breeds of dogs in the world are probably the Greyhound, the dog of the chase, the Terrier whom the old French called "la terriere" because it was the dog which went to ground, burrows of other animals, and the Elkhound or Husky type, which was the original watchdog of the herds. All three have known roots at least 7,000 years old.

From the third of the most ancient trinity of dogs, the Husky type, we have Samoyed, the Chow, the Eskimo Husky, the Norwegian Elkhound, very probably the Dutch Barge Hound, Keeshound, and, only just possibly, the Alsatian. Round the suspicious eyes and wolflike head of the latter, a storm of controversy, abuse, and calumny, has raged ever since October 13, 1781, when Dr. Pallas, the famous scientist and ornithologist, wrote in a letter that he had seen, at Moscow, animals which were the undoubted result of a cross between a dog and a wolf, a theory which was later endorsed by Collinson, a famous authority on dogs and dog history.

The wolf-descent theory is perhaps best borne out by the Husky group, all of which resemble the wolf in their pricked ears, size, build, shape of head and texture. Also, like the wolf, they do not bark but, unlike the wolf, they carry their bushy tails curled tightly over their backs.

For example, the Greyhound or Saluki in Egypt, Arabia, and other desert countries developed its graceful streamlined body, high speed and staying power because it was used solely for hunting gazelle, hare, jackal and other fast quarry over illimitable miles of sand.

The Terrier's short legs, tremendous courage and powerful forepaws are the result of centuries of digging in the dark galleries, caverns and dens of powerful foes such as the badger—whose jaws close like a steel trap and will bite through a man's foot —the fox, and the polecat.

The Husky needs his thick, coarse coat with its "undervest" of close wool, his stubborn nature and compact, powerful body if he is to live through long Arctic nights of snows and bitter frosts for nine months each year.

The true English terrier, which was all-white, was not much known before 1800, although the Cairn, probably the oldest terrier breed in the country, was going strong in the Scottish Highlands and was used by Highland shepherds for bolting the great, grey hill-foxes from their lairs in the cairns of rocks, hence the name. Yet the Cairn terrier was comparatively unknown in London and seldom seen at any English dog show before 1914.

As for the Skye he is, of course, the dog of the Isle of Skye, just as that charming intelligent and only-just-beginning-to-be-fashionable dog is the Shetland Collie, is a diminutive of the Scottish Collie. Like all island types it has increased in size from that of its original mainland forbears.

That grand dog, the Airedale, is not much more than 50 years old and he is supposed to have begun as a cross between that very ancient breed "the old English working terrier" which was an all-round looking animal of indefinite points, and an Otterhound. If that is so, and we have no definite records to prove it, the Otterhound blood would account for the Airedale's sagacity, his wiry shagginess of coat, heavy bone and tireless fitness. He is, in any case, one of the best of the Terrier breeds—so long as he does not take to sheep-worrying, which is a fault likely to develop if not watched.

One of the earliest Terriers and certainly one of the most attractive, intelligent and cleanly bred is the Manchester which is too seldom seen nowadays. The Manchester was known in 1800 and described by Richardson in 1847 as a graceful, active, wiry terrier with black and tan markings.

Even the Foxhound, which we regard as the typical English hound and traditional hound, is less than 250 years old. He began, in any case, as a cross between the Talbot, a great upstanding animal brought to this country by the Normans and used extensively as a house-guard.

Later, in the Middle Ages, it was used as a drag hound to accustom the trains of merchants, pedlars and others who crossed and recrossed the country by immemorial bridlepaths and rough pack roads which wound over desolate moors and heaths, through deep woods, and skirted the immense fens of Cambridgeshire, Lincolnshire, Huntingdonshire, and Norfolk. Robbers and footpads were everywhere, often the disbanded and desperate soldiery of the last war.

James I, who was a great hunter and sportsman, and to whom Newmarket owes much, began improving the two types of English hunting dogs, the "Northern and Southern Hound," by crossing them down from the Talbots by crossing them with a pack of French Staghounds sent him by Henry IV of France. Then he acknowledged Hound authorities. Johnson who wrote the Hunting Directory in 1850; Youatt, author of "The Dog" and "Scrutator" who wrote the Science of Foxhunting, all believed that a Greyhound cross was also introduced. So there you have the English Foxhound, the proudest British dog representative, possibly of everything English—an amalgam of Bloodhound, Staghound and Greyhound.

Hugo Meynell, who became Master of the Quorn in 1753, was the father of the modern Foxhound, although the Duke of Beaufort's pack was begun in 1728 and the Brocklesby pack in 1746.

As for the British bulldog, the national emblem, he is barely a century old—and a far, far differ- animal today from the long-snouted, active, leggy Bull Terrier which was the real Bulldog used for bull baiting. Can you imagine a modern, snuffling, bow-legged, short-snouted, amiable old bulldog as active, fearless and active bull by the nose?

Spaniels were originally Spanish dogs and to the British Courts a bare 300 years ago—"les chiens d'Espagnols"—and if women continue to pamper, and inbreed breeders to inbreed them, they will soon degenerate into lapdogs again.

The Pointer, too, is said to have originated from a Spanish pointing dog—"de punta." It was well established in 1720, and the Duke of Kingston, at Thoresby Park in Nottinghamshire, had a pack of pointers in the modern harvest fields, which no longer create a need for a "pointing dog." As a pity, for the Pointer is a gentleman among dogs, a dignified and friendly animal of great good looks, with clean lines and a sober intelligence.

The Retriever, bless his gallant heart and level head, is scarcely more than 80 years old, for did they not originate, round about the fifties, as a cross between a Newfoundland dog and a Setter?

Exercises Help You to Relax

How to Limber Up and Smooth Out Waistline Bulges

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

One of the large war plants recently published a pamphlet for its personnel containing some good suggestions and exercises for relaxation and conditioning the body.

For those who have leaning-forward jobs in the plant, there is "hoisting shoulders" for the back of head and neck—a technique which can be applied just as well to those who work at home or in an office, whether at peeling potatoes, sewing, typing or sitting at a desk.

Following these hints from the pamphlet will help to relieve tension of the head and neck. The exercises are easy to do.

Change your eye focus often from near objects to distant ones. This exercises your eye muscles and relieves strain.

Bend forward and downward to tie your shoes or pick up some small bits from the floor. This relieves a "light" head by allowing a flow of blood to enter the head.

Bathing the back of the neck and the eyes will relieve "droppy" heads. It gives a feeling of well-being and added "pep". Do this as often as you feel sleepy.

Massage the back of your neck near the base of the head to relieve a heavy, full feeling.

Nod head slowly forward and backward (eight times). Repeat, sidewise, right and left.

Reduce Waistline

Perhaps the scales do not indicate it, but the skirt you wore last spring may, when you put it on this winter, feel as that your waistline is not as slim as it was. If, throughout the summer months, the muscles that control the shape and form of the waistline area are allowed to become slack through lack of use, thickness and flabby bulges are the inevitable results. The only way to correct this condition is by exercise.

Many exercises for the waistline have been developed by physical training authorities. All are variations of certain basic movements that require the use of the important muscles in that region.

Two of these fundamental movements are to twist from the waist, and to bend from the waist. Done simply, without arm or leg movements, they are as follows:

Standing or sitting, with hands on hips or arms shoulder level, twist the shoulders as far as possible to the left, then the right, without moving the hips. Then bend to one side, then the other, stretching down from the waist.

Here is a floor exercise that combines the twisting movement of that one with use of the abdominal muscles, which govern to a large extent the control of the waistline.

Lie on the floor, arms stretched to the side shoulder level. Lift one leg from the floor as high as you can, then lower it to the side, trying to touch the opposite hand. Raise the leg to the former position above the body, lower it, then repeat movement with the other leg. Do this exercise slowly.

Muscle Rhythm

All games and sports as well as our daily work are a delight if the different muscles work rhythmically and in harmony. With jerky movements we waste energy and cause unnecessary strain.

Rhythm in movements—grace and balance—is what the women of today look for, and that is why so many have seriously taken up physical exercise as a means of achieving this. Co-ordination in uniform have made us all realize that we can improve our posture.

SIDE GLANCES

"Oh, this job isn't much, Uncle George, but it might lead to something better—the fellow who first carried the route years ago is governor now!"

It Eats Poison

From the Australian News Letter.

An officer on night patrol in New Guinea was bitten on the upper thigh by an insect or spider, he thought. He felt a burning, stabbing like sensation.

A lump rose on his arm to the size of a cricket ball. It was cut away and drained, but the patient went downhill quickly. The poison spread, his hair fell out, and he lost more than three stone in weight. His blood disease defied diagnosis.

His life was ebbing away, and he wrote a pencilled will. In a letter to his father the officer said:

"I was very ill when treatment began, but after the first dose of penicillin I never looked back. A fortnight later I was out of the wood, in spite of weakness and delirious times in spite of myself.

"I watched other patients responding to "the magic soup". Eyes quickly became clear and bright, color crept back into wan cheeks, appetites returned, feverish temperatures fell, and soul respiration approached normal.

"The weather during my treatment was hot and muggy. Jungle heat. Any breeze that did find its way through the wards reeked of the mould and slush of the jungle and its insect-infested swamps.

"Mosquitoes did not wait until night to attack, but buzzed about in the middle of the day. There were sudden changes of temperature, which had us calling for blankets. But nights were hotter than the days. A hell of a country.

"Through it all our medical men, nurses and orderlies fought not only the disease of their patients, but infections themselves.

"So you see penicillin, on a far from satisfactory battleground, is winning a war against the most dreaded tropical diseases. It has saved scores of lives already."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON. — If Vice-President Thomas Marshall were alive today, he would reaffirm what he said in Woodrow Wilson's day—that "what this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

Looking over the aftermaths of the late campaign, its rancor and its political wounds, this columnist suggests that what this country needs is a Dolly Gann—a political war — something to take our minds off politics.

Now if Mrs. Henry Wallace could just be persuaded to ride in a row with Mrs. Harry Truman as they would at a dinner, we would all have something to talk about. If only Senator Truman could be persuaded to make a statement that, as vice-president-elect, he considers it the prerogative of the wife of the vice-president ahead of Mrs. Henry Wallace! Then we could begin to forget our troubles.

Things weren't so tense in the Hoover administration, and folks weren't thinking so hard about politics. But even so, Vice-President Charlie Curtis patriotically came forward with an official announcement that his half-sister, Dolly Gann, was entitled to sit ahead of the wife of the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth. And Mrs. Longworth patriotically did her bit by bolting over with resentment.

Drew Pearson

The country had a marvelous time and nobody worried about anything else for weeks.

Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Wallace also are patriotic people, and they might give this idea serious consideration. They ought to consider seriously the fact that we have all, despite what must have been bitter disappointment for him at Chicago, swallowed his personal feelings and went down the line for Roosevelt and Truman like the good sport and real gentleman that he is.

And despite that, we think the Truman and Wallace families might well put patriotism before personal affection, and do something for their country.

Some folks might argue that not many people are going to formal dinners during the war, and that Wallace was never a great dinner-party man anyway. However, this is different. Even the OPA would probably waive its rulings and dispense a few extra points to hostesses who would lay their tables for a good hot social war.

Entertainment

Furthermore, it has never been decided yet where a Vice President and a Vice-President-elect should sit at dinner in relation to each other. Hitherto, one of them was usually out in the sticks and didn't come to Washington until Inauguration Day. They never came to grips at the dinner table. But now, we are faced with the fact that, in the Senate, Henry Wallace will sit next to Harry Truman, while Senator Truman will be down on the Senate floor looking up at him.

That doesn't seem right. Here is the Vice-President-elect who has been chosen by the people—with the help of Hannegan, Kelly and Flynn—and who should not have to sit on the Senate floor looking up at the man he has edged out of the Vice Presidency.

Of course, Henry Wallace always gets tired presiding over the Senate after the first hour and usually turns the gavel over to somebody else, frequently to Harry Truman. But this isn't good showmanship. It isn't right. It hardly help entertain the American people.

After all, the American people have something coming to them. They have really taken it on the chin. They have argued, yelled, listened to the radio, read the columnists, and finally voted in the toughest election since Abraham Lincoln. This campaign actually was much harder on them than on the candidates. The candidates only had to make the speeches. The American people had to listen.

So they deserve reward. And we think it is up to the Vice President and Vice-President-elect to oblige.

It used to be said that the Vice President was the diner-out of every Administration. And in these war days, when manpower is short and everyone is doubling up on work, the Vice President should take on the extra job of being the chief diverter of the nation.

We hope the Truman and Wallace families' patriotism will be equal to it.

Estates Seized

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP-Reuter)—The estates of one of the richest men in pre-war Poland, Count Alfred Potocki, have been seized by the Lublin Committee of National Liberation and parcelled out to the peasantry, Polpress, the news organization of the Lublin Poles, reported yesterday.

Churchill Asserts U.K. Export Trade Must Be Restored

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP)—Prime Minister Churchill, in his first House of Commons discussion of the growing question of post-war economic competition among the Allies, said today that after the defeat of Germany "we must make exertions to restore our export trade."

He told the house that until Japan is defeated the war must have first call on all Britain's efforts, but added:

"After the defeat of Germany it will be possible and necessary to turn over an increasing part of our resources to civilian production. Then we must make exertions to restore our export trade and re-equip our industry".

Says Soldiers Get Important Foreign Posts

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—C. M. Croft, director of the intelligence service of the trade and commerce department, said last night that Canadian soldiers in the field were chosen to fill important foreign posts in the department's expanding program. He said in addressing the national office management association that 200 applications have been received from soldiers, some of them serving as far away as India, for positions as assistant and specialist trade commissioners.

More Than 1,000 Autoists Tagged During October

Careless or thoughtless autoists, 1,065 in number, were "tagged" by city traffic officers during October, according to a report issued Thursday by Chief Constable Reg. Jones. The issuing of such tags reached a new high for the year, it was stated, and averaged 34 each day of the month.

In one day alone, H. S. Reynolds, accountant, city police headquarters, stated, more than 100 persons presented the tags they had received, together with the $1 penalty on each, to his office.

Bicycle operators also swelled the city's revenue for traffic offences, 92 of them each paying with 50 cents. Only 70 offenders were penalized in September. Jaywalkers, another source of trouble to the department, totalled 30.

90 JUVENILES ARRESTED

Juvenile lawlessness flourished in October, the detective department report showed. Ninety youthful offenders fell into law-officers' hands, however, following the investigation of 367 complaints. Leading in the charges preferred against the youths were 47 of theft, 20 of garage-breaking, eight of shop-breaking and seven of wilful damage.

Other investigations by the same department were made concerning 19 cases of assault, 10 of garage-breaking, 12 of breaking into freight-cars, 129 of common theft, 15 of shopbreaking, and other offences.

Value of lost or stolen property was given as $23,422.05, while goods recovered were valued at $13,702.55.

Officers of the uniform department responded to 562 calls in police cars during October, and investigated 290 complaints. Ninety premises —mostly business places — were found insecurely locked; 22 lost children were returned to their homes.

NO FATALITIES

The department was called on to investigate 66 accidents in which seven persons were injured. There were no traffic fatalities.

The property of the morality squad had a busy month—and a successful one, financially for the treasury—for fines amounting to $3,200 of costs were paid by 59 "clients".

No pet-owners turned up at the city pound to claim their charges, and 49 dogs and 34 cats were put to death.

City police court disposed of 103 cases during October, in which time 73 persons paid fines. Of the listed offenders, 88 were men and 17 women.

Plane Vanishes

CHARLOTTETOWN, Nov. 16.—(CP)—An airplane with four men aboard failed to return yesterday after a routine flight from No. 2 Air Navigation School here, the RCAF announced last night. The machine, a twin-engine Anson training bomber, was on a training flight when it disappeared.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

JIMMY MacLEAN, of the Canadian Legion team in the Friday section, is the current pace setter in the Mercantile 10-pin Bowling League. So far this season James has built up the nifty looking average of 192 for the 24 league games he has played to date on Recreation alleys.

Fred Hauby, of Royals in the Tuesday section is rolling along in second place with a figure of 188 acquired through 23 games. "Brownie" Sedgewick, of Goertz team has averaged 183 pins for his 24 strings and next in line is Ed Kramer of Poderskys with 182 for 18 who is tied with Mike Melnyk of Royals. Mike, however has played 72 games.

Doug Paton is top man for Bombadiers with 173 for 24 games. Other team leaders for the Tuesday section are: CNR Calder—Rogers, 180 for 9; CN Express—Frank Linford, 168 for 9; Canadian Legion—Jack McLean, 175 for 17; Edmonton Radiators—Steve Lakusta, 175 for 22; Motor Mecs—Lyman Scott, 170 for 21 games.

HERE AND THERE . . .

JUVENILE hockey shows the greatest increase for any of the groups coming under jurisdiction of the Edmonton District Hockey Association, which is presided over by Art Potter. The eight teams are exactly double last year's total. Charlie McIlmoyle, new director of minor hockey, appears to have a busy session coming up.

Midget teams number the same as during the previous season. There are two EAC squads this time, same as Canadians, but Maple Leafs have dropped to one, several of their midgets being advanced to juvenile to take the place of those still eligible in that division making the jump into junior.

EAC teams this winter will total 12 and Bill Drever says approximately 180 embryo national leaguers will be taken care of under his club's current program. Two more pee-wee teams bring the total in that group to eight.

Canadians also announced an increase of two bantam clubs, making six in all, with a possibility of more still to come. Bantam hockey will come under EDHA jurisdiction for the first time this season and the meeting to deal with the new problem is scheduled for the Barn, on Friday night.

Word that Bobby Carse apparently is safe, although tempered of course by the report he is a prisoner of war, will be grand news for all sportsmen and especially hockey fans. And all will be pulling for a speedy recovery from the reported shoulder wound. Bobby's last year in pro hockey was with the Chicago Black Hawks. Two winters ago, as will be recalled, he was with Victoria Army. Allan Cup finalists along with Ottawa Commandos in the spring of '43.

Red Wings Win 8-4 Making It Two in Row Over Maple Leafs

Detroit Hands Toronto Second Setback

McCready Beat Taylor For Title In Toronto Bout

Earl McCready originally acquired his right to the British Empire heavyweight wrestling title when he defeated Jack Taylor for the championship in a Toronto bout some years ago.

Taylor, now resident in Edmonton, will be the third man in the third of the McCready-Chief Thunderbird grappling session at Empire theatre on Saturday night.

Jack, at present employed with the Northwest Air Command, has always kept up training and for a considerable time was out regularly with city police officers while they were doing their P.T. Taylor is also booked upon as an authority on Jiujitsu.

Bob Kruse, of Portland, Ore., and Kola Staziak meet in the second of the double feature programs here on Saturday. Kruse competed in the 1928 Olympic Games and won the title in his division for the United States.

"Mushy" Callahan, sometimes known as "The Wildcat of Calgary," and one of the principals in a preliminary bout, originally started out as a featherweight boxer and it is claimed he never was knocked out in any of the more than 100 bouts in which he participated.

"The Mush" evidently is proving just as tough in the heavyweight game as he did with the gloves when he always provided lots of action. He now weighs about 168 and recently was discharged after being overseas in this war.

Sparks Wings to Victory

Bill "Flash" Hollett, at one time considered Maple Leafs "$20,000 Beauty," turned on his former team-mates last night as the Detroit Red Wings—the only team to knock over the Toronto club this season—defeated them for the second time, 8-4. He led the Wings to their victory by directing through for two unassisted goals on top of playing a superb game on defence. "Flash" acquired the above nickname when discovered by the Toronto team during the time the Maple Leaf Gardens lost $20,000 promoting indoor lacrosse. He was an outstanding boxla player. Hollett went from Toronto to Boston, eventually being traded by the Bruins to Detroit.

Now Only Game From Canadiens

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings scored their second straight victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League Wednesday night, winning 8-4 before 12,347 fans in a game featured by a three-goal outburst by the Red Wings in 28 seconds of the third period.

The win strengthened Detroit's hold on third place, moving them up to two points behind Montreal Canadiens. Leafs retain the league basement berth, a two-point edge on the Montreal team.

Defenceman Bill (Flash) Hollett spearheaded the Detroit Victory drive, scoring two unassisted goals and playing inspired hockey throughout. On both goals he stickhandled his way right on Frank McCool in the Toronto nets. Next to Hollett, Goal Tender Connie Dion was the big factor in the Detroit victory. He was a sensational all the way.

Ted (Teeter) Kennedy provided the most dangerous offensive threat for the Leafs, scoring two goals in 20 seconds in the third period and assisting in another goal. Toronto's high scoring line of Gus Bodnar, Sweeney Schriner and Lorne Carr went without a point for the second game in succession.

Detroit's three goals in 28 seconds came when Reg Hamilton was sitting out a tripping penalty. Defenceman Harold Jackson got the first unassisted at 11.47. Rookie Steve Wochy, who collected three scoring points in the game, scored the second at 12.02. Veteran Don Grosso got the third at 12.15. Grosso assisted on Wochy's goal and Wochy on Grosso's.

Other Detroit goal-getters were Modere (Mud) Bruneteau, Jerome (Jud) McAtee and Carl Liscombe. Nick Mets and Bob Davidson scored the other two Toronto tallies. Bruneteau, who scored the first goal for Detroit was hurt and had to retire.

Red Wings Come Within 4 Seconds Equalling Record

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—When Detroit Red Wings scored three goals in 28 seconds in the third period of their National Hockey League game against Toronto Maple Leafs last night they came within four seconds of equalling a league record established by the Montreal Maroons against New York Rangers March 15, 1932, when Dave Trottier, Hooley Smith and Babe Siebert scored a goal apiece in 24 seconds during the last minute of play. Maroons won that game 4-3.

Detroit—whose three goals last night were scored by Harold Jackson, Steve Wochy and Don Grosso—won 8-4.

Ted (Teeter) Kennedy's two goals for Leafs last night in 29 seconds may be something of an individual record. The league record book doesn't list any two-goal scoring feats. The record for three goals is held by Carl Liscombe of Detroit who tallied that number in one minute and 52 seconds in a game against Chicago on March 13, 1938.

Beaches' Coach Is Not Worried Over 9-Point Deficit

TORONTO, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The nine-point lead Hamilton Wildcats hold over Toronto Balmy Beach in the home-and-home points-to-count series for the Ontario Rugby Football Union title doesn't look formidable to Beach coach Alex Ponton.

Discussing his team's prospects for the second and deciding game of the series in Toronto Saturday, Ponton said today: "We haven't failed to score a touchdown from scrimmage against any team this year except Hamilton. Saturday we'll prove to the fans that we're strong enough to not only score one, but two touches. And they won't be by fumbles either."

Ponton figures that with a four passers — Earl Selkirk, Frank Stukus, Billy Myers and Ross McKelvey—his team can spread the Hamilton defence and keep it that way.

New York Mutuels Get Terrific Play

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—New York's 1944 racing season, which ended Wednesday with the conclusion of an extra nine-day victory meeting for war relief saw a total of $410,250,400 pass through the Pari Mutuel machines over a span of 189 racing days, an average of $2,170,371 a day.

Attendance and breakage, both subject to an official checkup later came to 4,496,788 and $3,230,294, respectively.

The state takes six per cent of the money wagered, and the tracks four per cent, while breakage is split on a 60-40 basis with the state getting the heavy end.

Horner to Coach Toronto Seniors

TORONTO, Nov. 16. — (CP) — Reginald George (Red) Horner, former defence star with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has accepted the job as coach of Toronto Staffords, new entry in the Senior Ontario Hockey Association, it was announced Wednesday.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Hipodromo De Las Americas, Mexico City race track, announced Wednesday that it will establish the "international special", open to horses from Britain, the United States, Mexico, Argentina and Chile after the war.

Has Shoulder Wound

Bobby Carse Now Reported Prisoner of War in Germany

CALGARY, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Bobby Carse, 25-year-old Edmonton-born hockey player, is a prisoner of war in Germany, according to information received here in a letter from England. He was formerly reported missing.

Victim of a shoulder wound, Carse was fighting beside Earl Chappell of Calgary, who received a similar injury almost at the same time.

In writing home to his brother Mel, stationed at Currie Barracks, Chappell told how he and Carse were captured. An exchange of prisoners at the battle front followed and Carse was taken to Germany while Chappell, who was "more fortunate" proceeded to a hospital in England.

In a conversation with Carse, Chappell ascertained the athlete's wound was painful, "but otherwise he appeared to be in good condition."

Carse began his hockey career as a midget then moved up to juvenile and junior ranks with the Edmonton Athletic Club. He played part of the 1939 season with Rhode Island Reds of Providence and later performed with Kansas City and Chicago Black Hawks. He played left wing with the Currie Army club a year ago, and also held down left field for the Army club in the foothills baseball league.

Nova Attempting Major Comeback

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Lou Nova is to attempt a major comeback under a big-time manager, James J. Johnston. Toward the end of 1938, Nova knocked out Lummar Barlund and beat Tommy Farr. In June of 1939, he knocked out Max Baer.

Then he made a mistake of pitching training camp at Nyack, N.Y., and coming under the influence of Oom the Omnipotent, who conducted a Yogi camp nearby.

The statuesque Nova spent his time writhing and twisting himself into various styles of pretzels.

Next he bumped into a Professor Brown, who taught him the cosmic punch and dynamic stance.

The net result was that Nova could no longer get his toe o'clock feet out of the way, which is bad, especially when you are tossed in there with a bloke like Joe Louis.

Nova has won 18 of his last 20 fights.

Jimmy Johnston tells you he has had all the daffy ideas knocked out of his head.

The most remarkable thing about Lou Nova is that the head is still on his shoulders.

Eddie Shamlock Player-Manager Of Coast Club

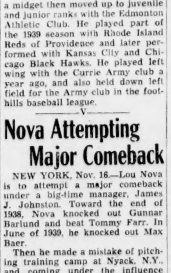

PORTLAND, Ore. Nov. 16.—(AP)—The Vancouver, Wash., Vans, cellarites in the Pacific Coast Hockey league, have a new player-manager. He is Eddie Shamlock, named Tuesday to replace Johnny Ballard, who immediately was signed by manager Jimmy Ward of the Portland Eagles.

Shamlock, who will play centre for the Vans, performed last season with the Vancouver, B.C. Maple Leafs and early this year with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National hockey circuit.

The loop-leading Seattle Ironmen will face the Vans in Portland next Sunday, while the Eagles travel to Seattle to meet the Stars.

Shamlock said last night he had signed Joe Conn, young Calgary wingman and that the newcomer would appear against the Seattle Ironmen here Sunday.

Shamlock said goaltender Jerry Foley of Regina might arrive in time for the game.

Prisoner

Cpl. Robert "Bobby" Carse, well known city hockey player and golfer, who played with the Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL, is now reported to be a prisoner of war. Going overseas in August of this year, he was listed as missing about a month ago. He played with the EAC Roamers in the Memorial cup junior finals against Oshawa Generals, in the spring of 1939.

Sports . . . . Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Quote, Unquote—

Jimmy Johnston (announcing that he has taken over Lou Nova's contract) "Now Lou intends to start chasing Joe Louis until he catches up with him. He may be sorry, but he'll be well paid."

The normally mild Don Hutson became somewhat annoyed when a Cleveland player guarded him rather roughly last Sunday and gave him a good shove while he was going after one pass . . . The ram promptly offered to clip Hutson on the chin the next time that happened . . . Came another Green Bay pass and Don headed directly for the defender, shouting "Get that clip ready, here I come." . . . Then he neatly sidestepped as his rival got set to swing, then went on to the end zone and caught a touchdown pass.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—(AP)—Julian Rice, a contract bridge teacher and lawyer, has approached what he considers an unfair rule in baseball and thinks he has the answer. The unfairness in the Foul Ball Rule, Rice says, is that a batter can hit a couple of screaming liners that barely curve foul and he's charged with two strikes. Then he barely touches one to foul it up onto the screen and it doesn't cost him anything at all . . . If he gets a 50 per cent "piece" of the ball, it's likely to be an easy pop fly, but if he's only two per cent right in his swing and already is charged with two strikes, there's no penalty for the inaccuracy.

What Rice proposes to do about this is to divide foul territory into zones. . . . One zone on each side of the present foul lines would be "free foul" territory into which a batter could hit—not bunt—as many fouls as he wanted without penalty. . . . The rest of the area would be the "penalty foul" zone and every foul into it would be ruled a strike, even the third one.

Pep Rally Saturday A.M.

EAC to Have Eight Teams In Pee-Wee Hockey This Year

EIGHT teams with a combined roster of about 120 players are provided for in the current season's plans of the Edmonton Athletic Club, in so far as pee-wee hockey activities are concerned. There were six teams in the youngest EAC circuit last winter.

A pep rally will be held in the Barn commencing at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and all eligible boys, 11 years and under are invited to attend.

All-told there will be 12 EAC sponsored hockey teams functioning this year, for in addition to the pee-wees, the club will enter two midget clubs in that division of city hockey and one in juvenile, as well as being represented in the Edmonton junior league.

The club plans to provide uniforms and supply other equipment for the pee-wees the same as last season.

In addition to President Percy Daigle and former president Clayton Bingham, Earl Robertson, George Snowden, Bill Drever and other club members will be on hand for Saturday morning's pep rally at the Barn.

List of coaches and managers for EAC juveniles, midgets and pee-wees this year also included Andrew (Shorts) Purcell former Edmonton senior, John Molyneaux of the RCMP and with Vics last winter and before that with Moose Jaw and Yorkton, Merle Wickets, Jack Price, Alfred Molyneaux, Jack Forman, Cliff Monteith, Harry Miller, Ed Cutts and Joe Harvey.

Eight-Club Juvenile Loop And Six in Midget League

A JUVENILE hockey league consisting of eight teams and a six-club midget loop will be operating in Edmonton this season, according to tentative plans outlined at the meeting of the Edmonton District Hockey Association held in The Barn on Wednesday night.

St. Albert and Forest Heights are the two latest entries in the juvenile group. Two sextets will be wearing the colors of the Canadian Athletic Club. The Forty-niners, team from the 2nd (R) Battalion, Loyal Edmonton Regiment, and one each from the Edmonton, Maple Leaf and South Side clubs complete the list.

Edmonton and Canadian Athletic clubs are both entering two teams in the midget division and there will be one each from the South Side and Maple Leafs.

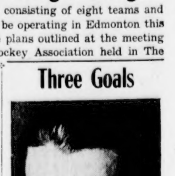

In view of the increased number of clubs in the juvenile division, three games per week appear to be the solution and all will be played at 119 Street rink, which will be juvenile headquarters this winter.

Two games per week will be played in the midget league, the same as in previous seasons.

Charles McIlmoyle acted as chairman at last night's meeting. W. G. Harris was secretary.

Three Goals

Doug Lewis, former junior puck chasing star with the Edmonton Athletic Club, has returned to hockey after spending a year in the navy and appears to be picking up where he left off. A member of Eddie Shore's Buffalo club in the American Hockey League, Lewis turned the hat trick last night as he led the Bison to a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh.

Lewis Nets Three As Bisons Upset Pittsburgh 5-3

BUFFALO, N.Y., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Buffalo Bisons last night handed Pittsburgh Hornets, American Hockey League Western Division leaders, their fourth straight defeat, 5-3, before 5,678 spectators.

Doug. Lewis, blonde left wing who is back in hockey after a year in the Canadian Navy, scored three goals for the Bisons.

Bob Walton opened the scoring for the Hornets with George Pargeter equalizing later in the first period.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Joe Bretto, former Chicago Black Hawks defenceman purchased Tuesday by Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League, reported for practice Wednesday and then unexpectedly left for his home at Hibbing, Minn.

The defenceman apparently decided that if he couldn't remain in the national league this season he wouldn't play at all, Barons' coach Fred (Bun) Cook said after unsuccessful attempt to stay the player's leave-taking.

Referee Declares Webb and Tanner Bout "No Contest"

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP Cable)—Danny Webb's climb up Britain's fistic ladder took a big jump last night when Referee Teddy Waltham stopped the Montreal Negro's featherweight match with Kid Tanner, British Guiana champion, in the fourth round and called it "no contest" on the ground neither fighter was making his best effort.

The scheduled eight-round main bout at the Queensberry club ended on a jarring note of catcalls from the big crowd after both managers and fighters had been warned by Waltham, one of Britain's best-known referees.

Webb left immediately after the bout for Glasgow where he will meet Tommy McGlinchey tonight.

Calling the fight "no contest" the referee, Teddy Woltham, ordered the two fighters from the ring. He said that Jack Harding, who is the matter would come before the British Boxing Board of Control who will consider the referee's report.

To Draw Up Constitution

City Recreation Commission Is Appointed at Meeting

A parks and recreation commission consisting of six representatives of city organizations was launched Wednesday night at the meeting of the By-Laws Committee of the City Council in the Civic Block. Alderman Syd Parsons was in the chair.

Those named to the commission were: Art Potter, Edmonton and District Hockey Association; Clark Ready, YMCA; Lloyd Jones, Federation of Community Leagues; Mrs. George Willson, CGIT; Clarence Richards, Kinsmen Club; A. E. Rosborough, Home and School Association.

The committee was directed by the meeting to draw up a constitution to be submitted to City Council on Nov. 27. The council would either accept or reject it, or make any changes they found necessary. The commission has arranged to meet on Tuesday, Nov. 21 in the committee rooms at the Civic Block at 8:15 o'clock to draw up the constitution.

Alderman Fred Mitchell suggested the make-up of the commission at the meeting and gave a brief outline of the proposed organization. Plans for recreation activities were left in the hands of the newly formed group, however.

Each representative of an organization or association was heard before the committee was selected and some very interesting points, which the commission would look into, were brought out. Need of more facilities such as hockey rinks, etc., was one of the points stressed. Alderman J. M. Douglas, speaking for the Exhibition Association, stated, however, that the buildings of that association available would be placed at the disposal of the commission.

The meeting was well attended.

The Tragic Story Of Aussie Horse Will Never Die

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—Sgt. Bill Passen writes from Townsville, Australia, reviving the tragic story of Phar Lap, a story that will never die.

"The Aussies still believe," reports Sergeant Passen, "that Americans poisoned the hide because we were afraid he might beat our best."

This is ridiculous, of course, but at the time an Australian newspaper made the charge. The truth is that, after winning the Agua Caliente Handicap of 1932, Phar Lap died in northern California of arsenic of lead or some such poison spread on grass on which he was grazing.

Phar Lap ran away from everything Down Under, was unquestionably a great horse. Although Phar Lap, a big fellow, beat nothing out of the ordinary in his one start in North America, his time for the mile and a quarter with 129 pounds on his back, 2:02 4-5, was very good. Phar Lap was six years old at the time, and behind him were Reveille Boy, carrying 118, and Schmiltar, in with 100. Reveille Boy won the American Derby two years before.

Sergeant Passen, an old St. Louis boy and a boss player from "way back, finds Australian racing considerably different from ours.

"They put so much lead on a horse that he has an awful time getting around. Just imagine loading 345 pounds on Devil Diver at a mile and a half. He'd either break down or chuck it in three furlongs. But in Australia they think nothing of it."

Oddly enough, tonnage apparently spells stamina in Australia.

"Their distance horses would give ours quite a bit of trouble, but our sprinters would run away from theirs," says Sgt. Passen.

"They still play guessing games on close finishes. The photo finish is unheard of.

"Standard equipment for jockeys is a pair of spurs. Anything goes. American jocks have been grounded for months for things they get by with here."

But suckers rush to the mutuel windows in the same old way in any country or language.

Indeed, Australia is the source of much of the trouble. The totalizator was invented there.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Nov. 16—The two greatest needs of current racing are "receiving barns", where horses can be examined for drugs before they run, and schools for appentice jockeys, where likely youngsters can be trained to ride properly, according to Ednyfed F. Williams of Chicago, president of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners.

Williams, chairman of the Illinois racing board, is campaigning for establishment of these innovations in all 22 states where the gee gees now gallop. He announced this Tuesday night at a supper in Club 21, given the press by William A. Shawcross, director of racing in Rhode Island and chairman of the national association's committee on public relations.

Williams said, "I hope the public will not misconstrue my proposal for receiving barns as indicating any increase in tampering with horses. Exactly the reverse is true. Tampering now is a rarity.

WANTS BARNS SET UP

"HOWEVER, it should be eliminated entirely; it's isolated cases reflect unduly upon the sport's honesty. Now that racing has attained such tremendous stature, it's reputation must be kept spotless. Establishment of receiving barns at all tracks will do much to achieve this goal."

Williams pointed out that the current procedure of examining winning horses and strange actors after the race—the results of saliva tests and urinalyses are not disclosed until 24 or 48 hours later—does not properly protect the betting public, although it does result in penalties for dishonest owners, trainers and handlers.

"Establishment of receiving barns would force owners to subject their horses to thorough inspection for at least two hours before each race," he continued. "Indications of stimulating or depressing drugs might be noticed, and the victimized horse withdrawn for examination. Likewise over feeding, overwatering or improper shoeing—artifices that might slow up a favorite—could be detected, causing the horse to be scratched.

SHORTAGE OF GOOD RIDERS

CONCERNING the establishment of schools for apprentices, Williams warned that the shortage of good novice riders "actually threatens future racing." He proposes that the commission in each racing state provide a school that will attract and train youngsters in its area, so that the number of apprentices will increase likewise their proficiency in the saddle.

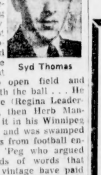

These schools, handled by capable instructors, would be shifted from one operating track to another. They should combine practical instruction on the track in the morning and theoretical instruction at night.

Williams' proposals will be given to the semi-annual meeting of the association's committee chairmen at Miami, Fla., in mid-February. The meeting also will consider proposals aimed at achieving nation-wide uniformity in such matters as claiming rules and apprentice allowances.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

By SYD THOMAS

TORONTO, Nov. 16—(CP)—A minor tempest of protest was stirred up by Al Ritchie when he said the football teams of today might be just as good in some ways as the best of the past, but they didn't have the savvy when it came to inside and smart plays. The foxy Regina coach listed some of the current "deficiencies" in clever play as: Fake lateral passes, forward pass defence, tackling the proper way (defence against tackling by proper pivoting and swivelling, the good old straight arm, kicking to open field and breaking fast with the ball . . . He told that to Dave (Regina Leader-Post) Dryburgh, then Herb Manning reproduces it in his Winnipeg Tribune column, and was swamped by angry protests from football enthusiasts in the 'Peg who argued by the thousands of words that teams of recent vintage have paid exceedingly good attention to all those points, and others . . . These arguments pop up in every sport from time to time, but this promises to be a good one.

FEMININE EMANCIPATION SECTION:

Now that the American Canoe Association has lifted the ban on women entering paddling competitions, Bobby (Toronto Globe) and Mail) Rosenfeld foresees the day soon when inter-club competition is put on the sport map in Canada, which is under the jurisdiction of the ACA. Cut those ripples, girls!

Demon statistician wanted:

The Quebec Senior Hockey League, rolling merrily on its way, chalked up nearly 150 scoring points in the first five games of galegoal-getting. Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick predicts the league probably will be looking for a new score-keeper before long if that keeps up. Either that, or more adding machines will be needed.

INCIDENTALLY:

The recent US elections may have an indirect bearing on the revival of wrestling on the west coast. Carl Robertson of the Vancouver News-Herald notes that Arthur Landle, republican representative in Washington State, long a bitter opponent of wrestling in Seattle, has been defeated by the democratic candidate.

Wrestling was banned in Seattle after a wrestler was killed, and that had an adverse effect on the sport in Vancouver. Now the promoters are hoping the new congressman will bring down a new ruling. . . George Ritchie, former starry defenceman with Oshawa Generals, has been medically discharged from the army and is trying out with Toronto Staffords, senior entry. He spent four years in khaki, and was a captain when discharged.

Veterans To Get Important Posts In Federal Dept.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16—(CP)—Veterans' Minister Mackenzie, speaking on policy to department district administrators here yesterday, said the department would appoint veterans of this war to key positions in the department as soon as the men are made available by the defence services. The appointments would include two to the Canadian Pension commission.

The administrators had come to Ottawa for a three-day conference at which steps will be taken to insure uniform administration of re-establishment legislation.

Mr. Mackenzie said: "One thing I would emphasize is that you develop a spirit of sympathy towards the man who is going through the program of re-establishment. Wherever a case is in doubt, lean backwards in favor of the man."

Second Bruneteau To Join Detroit

QUEBEC, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Eddie (Twirl) Bruneteau, left winger of Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, left here last night for Detroit where he will report to Red Wings of the National Hockey League. Eddie, 25, is a brother of Modere (Mud) Bruneteau, veteran Detroit Winger.

He is the fifth member of the Aces, holders of the Allan Cup, to be called to NHL ranks this season. Lude Check now is with Chicago Black Hawks, Nile Tremblay with Montreal Canadiens and Gino Rozzini and Armand Gaudreault with Boston Bruins.

State MacDonald May Be Recalled For Political Talk

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—The Daily Sketch, in an article by its political correspondent published today, said there is a possibility that Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom high commissioner to Canada, "May be recalled" as a result of his recent speech referring to the political situation in Britain. The story said the speech "is viewed in higher circles in London as cutting across a long-standing tradition," adding:

"Even when the high commissioner is a member of parliament he is not expected to give expression to purely political points of view."

Charge Youngster With $91 Theft

An 11-year-old Edmonton boy discovered in a private home shortly after 8 p.m. Wednesday, was hustled by city police to the lock up and charged with the theft of $91. The money was recovered.

According to Mrs. P. R. King, Casa Loma apartments, 106 street and 98 avenue, who was in bed when she heard a noise and got up to investigate, the boy was found in another room, having entered the premises through a window on a level with the ground.

A search of her purse revealed that $91 was missing, but after looking about the room she located the money under a chair cushion she said. She then called police.

Rotarians Hear Proposals For Lasting Peace

Outlining his ideas for a "World Constable" for the maintenance of peace, Dr. Mack Eastman of the University of Saskatchewan history department, addressed a luncheon meeting of the Edmonton Rotary club in the Macdonald hotel Thursday.

Suggesting a small but representative infantry police force, made up of men from the United Nations, Dr. Eastman said the force could be transported by air at the request of the central council of the peace league, without consent of the parliaments of the various countries.

The central Council would have at its instant service a symbol of its authority in the realm of defence", he said. "In order that future aggression might be discouraged or nipped in the bud, the League's military inspectors would have wide rights of surveillance, and detachments of the constabulary would be at their disposal.

DETER AGGRESSION

"If, in spite of all precautions, warlike designs here or there had made progress, the 'constable' would not boast that it could vanquish a fully prepared and determined aggressor, but it would probably deter incipient aggression by being thrown in time across the path of the intending peace breaker, laying down the law to his generals through the mouths of its high-ranking officers, and offering the plotter of evil one last chance of repentance. The Japanese warlords in 1931 and Mussolini in 1935 would have felt much greater respect for an armed constable, backed undoubtedly by public opinion and public emotion in the participating countries, than they showed for the juridicial condemnations of a powerless Geneva Assembly."

Public opinion on the home front in each participating country would undoubtedly support the constabulary, Dr. Eastman said, for while the man in the street cared little for the old League his blood would boil if his own countrymen in the little police force were "murdered in the performance of their duty by international gangsters."

He suggested that this might be the psychological moment for Canada, as a new leader of the secondary powers and a predestined elective member of the council, to put forward such a suggestion at forthcoming conferences of the United Nations. "Such a happy change from our former negative attitudes at Geneva might well exert a great influence out of all proportion to our modest population," he said.

Old Timers Celebrate 50th Anniversary at Annual "Round-Up"

Marking the golden anniversary of the founding of the Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers Association, more than 400 members, and their friends gathered at the annual banquet and dance in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday. Pictured above is a section of the head table, showing, left to right, Mayor John W. Fry, Mrs. A. E. Ottewell, His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen, J. C. McDougall, toastmaster, A. E. Early Days Recalled at Annual Round-Up

North Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers Mark 50th Anniversary of Organization

Celebrating the 50th anniversary of the founding of their organization, more than 400 members of the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old Timers' Association and their friends, gathered for their annual round-up banquet and dance in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night.

Talk of "the good old days" of the covered wagon and Red river cart, of log cabins and rigorous living, when the 24th of May was the event of the year and the anthem was "God Save the Queen", brought forth many a chuckle and reminiscent head shake from men and women whose memory of the early days is still bright and clear.

Members from the surrounding towns of Fort Saskatchewan, Clover Bar, Millet, Leduc and St. Albert, came to Edmonton for the reunion and spent the evening renewing old friendships and joining in the round of old-time dances after the main dining room was cleared of the banquet tables.

PIONEER COUPLE PRESENT

One couple, Mr. and Mrs. John W. West, who have been resident in this part of Canada for the last 53 years, were present again this year. Mr. West has been in business at Millet for 43 years and he and his wife have been present at most of the annual round-ups.

Every year the ranks of the real old timers get noticeably thinner and the crowd is made up of second generation pioneers, eligible because their parents, or grandparents, were west of the Great Lakes before 1898.

Oldest member attending this year was James McFadzen, who celebrated his 96th birthday on August 2 this year, and who was beamingly accepting congratulations from friends. The white bewhiskered old gentleman has been unable to attend the round-up in recent years owing to ill health, but this year he is rosy and jovial and straight as a die. After dinner he sat watching the dancers, puffing a Churchill-sized cigar and recalling his own prowess at "jigging" in slightly younger years.

KNOWS OLD WEST

Mr. McFadzen can talk about the west of the days as early as 1879 for that is when he moved to Brandon, Manitoba. He spent a few minutes chatting with another old-timer, Cleophus Turgeon, who has passed his 88th birthday and has spent many of his years in this district. Mr. Turgeon was a member of the original volunteer fire brigade in Edmonton.

Passing through a log cabin doorway at the entrance to the dining room, guests responded to the traditional cow-bell call to dinner and sat at party tables for the banquet of roast chicken with all the trimmings. Feature item on the menu was Elk Island braised elk.

James McCool, secretary of the association, said the red tape which had to be unwound to secure the two carcasses weighing about 650 pounds, was a far cry from the days when a man could go out and shoot one for the asking.

His Honor, Lt. Gov. J. C. Bowen, was one of the special guests and in a brief address congratulated members on their 50th anniversary.

HOPE FOR FUTURE

"It is a great thing to commemorate the days gone by with, as is typical of the pioneer, great hope for the future," he said. "Pioneers are possessed of a great spirit and there is something in that spirit which is undefinable. They came to a district where there was only

Congregation Extends Call For Minister

At a congregational meeting of the members of Central United Church on Wednesday evening unanimous decision was made to extend a call to Rev. Elliott H. Birdsall, of Fort Saskatchewan United church to become minister of Central United.

The Rev. A. F. Marsh former minister at Central United is now at Hillhurst United church in Calgary, having concluded his service in the Edmonton church on Sunday, Oct. 2.

The call to Rev. E. H. Birdsall is subject to acceptance and ratification by the Edmonton Presbytery of the United Church.

The Rev. Dr. A. K. McMinn, interim-chairman in the pulpit vacancy, was chairman of the meeting and Robert McCreath, clerk of session of the church and secretary of the church committee in the vacancy presented the committee report. Members of the committee included Mrs. W. H. Facey, Mrs. T. Ewart, A. C. Stewart, and John P. McClary.

CHURCH IS PLEASED

Central United Church feels that it is to be congratulated in the making of its choice from the Alberta Conference of the United church and also the choice of a native son of the province. Rev. E. H. Birdsall has a splendid record of achievement to his credit during his student days and in his ministerial work.

The call to the pastorate of Central United is considered a fine tribute to his work and a recognition of his capacity to serve in this Edmonton church, which has a fine record of community service in addition to the wider church fields at home and abroad. It is a church that has had, over a period of almost 40 years, able and well known ministers in charge.

Meeting Supports McNaughton Stand

At a general membership meeting of the Labor-Progressive party in the IOOF hall, 103 street, Tuesday night, it was charged that current agitation concerning reinforcements for troops overseas is an attempt to precipitate a general election in Canada in the hope of achieving a Tory "reactionary" victory at the polls.

The meeting called for popular support of the people to the policies advocated by General McNaughton.

"Paddy" Griffin, Vets' Welfare Officer, Dies

Death, early Thursday, ended the career of one of Edmonton's best known and most beloved veterans of the First Great War when William "Paddy" Griffin, welfare officer with the Canadian Legion for several years, died at his home at 10465 83 avenue.

Death came quietly to the man who has been unceasing in his efforts on behalf of the men and their dependents who have suffered in fighting for their country. "Paddy" died at 4:45 a.m. Thursday. He had been ill for several months.

In addition to his activities on behalf of veterans Mr. Griffin was also prominent in labor circles.

UNION PRESIDENT

A bricklayer by trade he was president of the Hod Carriers' and Laborers' Union and headed the credentials committee of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council for many years.

A funeral service will be held Saturday from the Foster and McGarvey funeral chapel, the time to be announced later.

Edmonton Branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion, BESL, will be in charge of the service.

Floral tributes should be sent to the University Hospital and should be in the form of sprays, it was announced.

He served with the Canadian Railway Troops during the First Great War, and although he suffered serious disabilities, never gave a thought to himself. His untiring efforts to help his comrades of the First Great War and their families, even after he became seriously ill, undoubtedly hastened his own death.

He is survived by his wife and two children, William, 15 years old and Shirley, 14, at home. Other members of the family reside in the U.S.A.

Mr. Griffin was born in Dungarven County, Waterford, Ireland and was educated there.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

In addition to service in the First Great War he travelled extensively to all parts of the world prior to coming to Edmonton.

During his term as Legion welfare officer he handled thousands of cases and always fought hard for better conditions of allowances and pay for veterans and their dependents.

He was a member of the Edmonton Legion executive for many years, and was chairman of the visiting committee that arranged regular visits to soldier patients in hospitals.

POST AT POLLS

In 1942 he was a candidate of the service men in the provincial by-election held in Edmonton. Although defeated, he polled a large vote and was one of the most colorful campaigners in the field.

During the visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen in 1939 "Paddy" excelled himself by arranging the visit of Their Majesties to "the soldiers' ward of the University hospital.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

If all babies developed the same capacities at the same ages, it would be easy enough to set down rules about self-feeding which would be applicable to all. But they do not. Some babies can take the contents of a spoon at two months, some may be four or so before they can negotiate it successfully.

Babies do not intend to repudiate what is being fed them. The fact is, they may want it. But they treat the spoon as they have been accustomed to treat the bottle nipple. They push at it with their tongues. When this is a mouthful of soft food the tongue pushes it right out of their mouths.

And then mother says, in aggravation, "Now why doesn't he like that good cereal? I know it is prepared properly." Of course it is. And don't let your own tension and nervousness about baby's behavior tempt you to get cross or scold or influence his behavior by your own. Then you do set up future difficulties.

It is absolutely essential to be calm when feeding the baby. He will reflect the parent's strains and be unable to do as well as he might if his mother kept a smiling face and acted all of the time as if this were a lot of fun.

Start with a small spoonful of a new food and offer it when the child is rested and able to try to learn new skills. Do not force the spoon on a hungry baby, eager to get at his familiar bottle. Give him the bottle and when he stops to take breath and enjoy a big burp, then introduce the spoonful of smooth, warm cereal, or the sieved, warm vegetable. Give one spoonful and if he pushes it out with his tongue, wipe his mouth, try another spoonful and talk to him gently and persuasively until he manages to swallow it. Then stop and offer the bottle again.

At the end of the feeding another spoonful can be tried. As two spoonfuls of any strange food would be ample, stop right there and be satisfied.

If he fights, pushes and cries, call it a day and present the bottle. Try again at some other meal. It is better to waste a few spoonfuls of prepared vegetable or cereal than to sour the child against the whole business of spoon feeding.

And do remind yourself, after several honest efforts without success, that to postpone this for a week or so will find the baby just that much more ready to attempt this new job of learning to eat from a spoon.

Our leaflet, "Teaching Use of Spoon and Cup," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred, in care of this newspaper.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

J. Warren Slattery of Brooklyn, N.Y., is a member of the Brooklyn and Long Island Committee that recently raised $1,200 for the American Contract Bridge League's fight against cancer in children.

He is to be congratulated on the job he and the committee did in Brooklyn, and also for finishing in third place in the mixed pair event with Mrs. Dorothy Roberts.

Slattery's timing was nice on today's hand. When the opening diamond lead held, West shifted to a club and Slattery (South) won. West's no trump overcall and double precisely marked the king and jack of spades. It looked, therefore, as if the correct play would be to cash the ace of spades and lead toward the queen. But then, if the opponents cash two heart tricks, the contract would be defeated. If Slattery cashed the king and queen of clubs, discarding one of his hearts, he would be locked in dummy.

He timed the play by going over to the king of diamonds, cashing the king and queen of clubs and discarding a heart, leading a small spade to the ace and discarding the fourth club on the good jack of diamonds. When he led a small spade toward the queen, West could win with the king but even though he put his partner in with the king of hearts, and the jack of clubs was returned, Slattery was able to ruff. If West over-ruffed the queen of trumps was still the protecting card in dummy.

THUNDERSTORMS DO NOT CAUSE MILK TO SOUR

Among rural people there is a very widely accepted belief that thunder storms, in some mystic way, cause milk to sour. There is no basis for such a belief. The reason the milk sours is not because of the thunder, but because of the hot weather which usually precedes the thunder storm. Germs multiply faster when the milk is warmer, and thus the souring is brought about more quickly. The modern use of artificial refrigeration is killing this superstition.

CONSERVATIVE TREATMENT OF ENLARGED TONSILS

In the majority of cases there is no evidence of infection and no need of treatment for enlarged tonsils in children from three to 15 years of age. It is physiological or normal for children of this age to have large tonsils.

Medical or surgical treatment is required if the tonsils and-or the pharyngeal tonsil (adenoids) become so very large that the child's breathing is manifestly obstructed. For instance, if the child cannot breathe through the nose with the mouth closed, or if the child chokes and snorts and tosses about at night or assumes the knee-chest posture in order to maintain free breathing while asleep.

Although the tonsils and adenoids, composed of the same type of tissue as that in the spleen, the lymph nodes or "glands" throughout the body, the red bone marrow, etc., probably serve a useful purpose, contributing to maintenance of immunity against the cri (and please understand this term (kree) means any one of the Common Respiratory Infections, from the mildest acute corpse or rhinitis to infantile paralysis or measles—there is a point where this protective function of the tonsil tissue fails and surgery, conservative surgery, becomes necessary.

By conservative surgery I mean one of three alternatives to standard surgical tonsillectomy or "complete" removal of the tonsils. These are (1) a series of X-ray treatments, particularly effective where the child has middle ear trouble or some deafness; (2) diathermy (electro-coagulation), for patients old enough to co-operate with the physician giving the treatments—usually children under eight years of age will not co-operate; and (3) tonsillotomy.

Tonsillotomy means merely slicing off, clipping, removing a portion of the tonsil, by means of the tonsillotome. This is a jiffy operation, and even without an anesthetic it hurts no more than extraction of a tooth—so say many older children and adults who have submitted to tonsillotomy. In my opinion this is as far as we should go with surgery for enlarged tonsils and-or adenoids—I believe tonsillectomy (so-called "complete" removal of the tonsil is justified only in rare instances of malignancy.

The first two alternatives are bloodless. The first (X-ray) is painless. The electro-coagulation method is not more painful than is, say, dental treatment of a cavity. Of course tonsillotomy is momentarily painful, and some bleeding occurs, although rarely enough to cause alarm.

One or another method of treatment should be used when the child with enlarged tonsils (1) has repeated attacks of sore throat or tonsillitis or more frequent attacks of cri than other young persons in the household; (2) when the child with enlarged tonsils and-or adenoids shows signs of defective hearing or symptoms of middle ear trouble; (3) when there is manifest or structural breathing as above described.

That leaves a majority of children with enlarged tonsils and-or adenoids entitled to be let alone, so far as medical or surgical treatment may be concerned.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Marriage Has Proven Profitable Investment

Wifehood Is the Best Paying Profession That the Average Woman Can Follow; Men Need Marriage Too

When a woman marries she puts her life and all of her hopes and ambitions and expectations of happiness into the venture. What sort of dividends can she look forward to collecting? What kind of security does marriage offer her? Aside from its sentimental side, does the holy estate give a woman as good an opening for the exercise of her talents and energies as business or a profession would? Or is it as risky as plunging on Wildcat stocks.

Curiously enough, while practically all girls want to marry and expect to marry, they think of marriage as a sort of sentimental and romantic fling that belongs to youth. They don't regard it as a career; they do think of wifehood as, taking it by and large, the best paying profession that the average woman can follow, even from the money standpoint.

For, leaving aside the cinema stars and female geniuses, who are few and far apart, there is not a handful of women who have made fortunes by their own efforts. But there are hundreds of thousands of women who loll in luxury on the money their husbands have made. Often and often these sable-clad and pearl-bedecked wives have helped their husbands make their fortunes but they could not have done it alone, no matter how hard they had pinched pennies, nor how thin they had peeled the potatoes. It took the initiative and the strength to fight the battle with the world and wrest success from it.

COMPENSATIONS

Women who are married to men in moderate circumstances and who have to do their own housework and baby-tending and buy their clothes in the bargain shops, look enviously upon their unmarried sisters with good jobs. They feel that they are nothing but domestic slaves. Because there is no pay envelope for them at the end of their hard week's labor they feel that their work for nothing.

But even there they are wrong, because after the business girl has paid for her lodging and food and the more expensive clothes that her position requires, she seldom has any more money in her purse than the domestic woman has. If takes a long time and unusual ability for any woman who is on her own to afford the nice apartment and the little car that her married sister possesses.

Furthermore, the married woman has a security that the single woman lacks. Somebody to care for her in sickness and in health, even though from whom she can collect alimony if she divorces him. And if, alas, her husband should die, there is the insurance policy on which the bereaved widow can fend away the wolf until she can make a new start.

And there are the children who may have been a bother when they were young, but who are the best insurance against the misfortunes of life. So, taking it all in all, marriage for women is an investment that pays a pretty good percentage not only in happiness, but in dollars and cents. It has its risks, of course, for there is no sure thing in life, but it is a gamble on which any woman with a drop of gambling blood in her veins should be willing to take a chance. Once, anyway.

Freshman Election Is Concluded; Results Announced

Climaxing a week of parades, pep rallies, drum-beating, and shouting, the results of the Freshman election were announced at the University of Alberta Wednesday night. Both parties had every available bulletin board covered with posters, signs and bills urging the Freshmen to vote for their party. One slate of candidates, calling themselves "The Cream of the Crop" put on an especially vigorous campaign, promising a fine year of campus activities.

Ross Jefferies was elected president over his opponent, Sandy Sandiuk, after a long and close fight. Frances Waddel was elected vice-president with a majority over her opponent, Mary Streeper. Bob Jackson beat his opponent, Neville Lindsay to take the position of secretary-treasurer. The executive members for the coming year will be Rod McDaniel, Elaine Wagner and Johnny Koch. The chief duties of the Freshman Executive is to arrange for the class pictures in the Evergreen and Gold and collaborate with the Sophomore class in putting on the "Frosh," a class dance to be held later on in the year.

Board Adopts Resolution On Cigarettes

A resolution addressed to the Minister of Veterans' Affairs, the Minister of National Revenue and the Minister of Trade and Commerce, that cigarettes at overseas rates be obtainable for battle casualties in hospitals in Canada, was endorsed by the Board of the War Service Council at its Tuesday night meeting.

Mrs. G. E. Goodsil, chairman of War Service Auxiliaries, informed the Council that 11 to 17 veterans of this war had been placed in the American Army Base hospital here.

Although the American authorities have been perfectly willing to operate, said Mrs. Goodall, leave to purchase cigarettes from the American canteen had been refused them, nor were they able to purchase Canadian cigarettes.

The regular meeting of the pre-natal class conducted by the Victorian Order of Nurses will be held in the YWCA club room on Friday at 2:30 p.m. An invitation to attend is extended to anyone interested. Refreshments are served after the meeting by the Club Victorian.

Four pre-natal classes were held with an attendance of 95. Miss Dorothy Micklebourogh, western supervisor, will arrive in Edmonton on Thursday to confer with Mrs. Selihorn and board members.

Economics Club Has First Meet

Varsity Coeds To Date Men

Plans are underway at the University of Alberta for the annual Waw Waw weekend. This event has as its main feature the fact that the women foot the bill for all entertainment. The week-end will begin Friday night with a theatre party at the Garneau. As an added attraction a "Stag" show is being arranged by members of the Law Faculty and the Outdoor Club. Music will be provided by Owen Jones and his orchestra.

Saturday afternoon Daisies will take their Joes to the Barn to the regular Saturday afternoon "Jam" session. The outstanding event of the week-end however, will be the Road Science Ball on Saturday night. This will be a novelty dance and the admission charge will be according to the size of the man's head.

To help "Joes" and "Daisies" get dates for the week-end a "Date Bureau has been arranged by the Gateway staff, the University paper. A column of "Personal ads" has been introduced in which prospective male dates describe in glowing terms their various charms and reveal their telephone numbers.

Rules regarding Waw Waw week-end are many and varied. A few of the most important ones are: girls must walk on the outside of the sidewalk when walking with a man. Girls must call a man when a professor enters the room. When phoning for a date girls must call themselves "Daisy" and the boys are not allowed to ask them their names. A girl must call for her date and take him home again.

Doug Love is the director of Waw Waw week-end and he predicts a fine time for everyone.

Violet Scott, Cpl. H. Hawley Are Married at Home Ceremony

The marriage was solemnized Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. of Miss Violet May Scott, second daughter of Mrs. W. S. Scott and the late Mr Scott of Edmonton, and Cpl. Harold Hawley, RCASC, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawley of Mannville, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Scott, 12105 95 street, brother and sister-in-law of the bride.

The Rev. W. T. Young performed the ceremony, in front of the fireplace which was hanked with ferns and chrysanthemums in various shades.

The bride was smartly frocked in a two-piece dress of gold woolen crepe. The jacket was styled with a surplus front buttoning at the side with self covered buttons, and long sleeves. Her hat was a small half-hat model in black velvet trimmed with tiny velvet bows and black veiling, and her accessories were also black. She wore an orchid corsage pinned at her shoulder.

BRIDESMAID

Miss Norma Scott, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid wearing a navy blue silk crepe street length frock, made Princess style with square neckline, and featuring an inserted yoke of white lace. The sleeves were bracelet length. Her hat was a half-hat model in navy blue, trimmed in navy veiling, and she wore a corsage of American beauty roses.

Best man was Percy Hawley of Manmville, brother of the orride groom.

After the ceremony a reception to the immediate family was held.

The bride's table was set with a white linen cloth which had been used on the bride's mother's wedding day. Centering the table was a three-tiered wedding cake, and on either side were slender white tapers in crystal holders. Pink carnations in crystal bowls completed the table decorations.

Sgt. Richard Playfair proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Scott, mother of the bride, was dressed in a mauve two-piece frock with hat to tone, and black accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Hawley the bridegroom's mother chose a two-piece gown of black with black felt hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Calgary and Banff. On their return they will take up residence in the city. For traveling the bride topped her wedding ensemble with a black fur coat.

Edmonton Pioneers Hold Dinner, Dance at Hotel; Talk of Past

Edmonton as far back as 1879 was re-born Wednesday, when 400 old timers and descendants of old timers gathered at the Macdonald hotel for the annual banquet and dance of the Northern Alberta Pioneers' and Old Timers' association.

Coming from Calgary and distant points in the north, pioneers who braved a hundred hardships and travelled by dog team and ox cart, laughed at bygone days and recalled memories of the past.

Oldest among the women present was Mrs. D. G. McQueen, widow of the Rev. Dr. D. G. McQueen, for many years minister of First Presbyterian church. Mrs. McQueen came to Edmonton in 1889 by ox cart from Calgary. Mrs. Sarah Frazer, 72 years old, came to Edmonton in 1889 from Norway House Man., and travelled by wagon to the Peace River country. She was then Mrs. A. Tate, and spoke with a sparkle in her eyes of the friendliness of the west in those days. Today, she explained, the city has lost its gaiety and its spirit of comradeship.

CITY IN 1879

Miss Etta McLeod first saw Edmonton in 1879. Mrs. Robert Sutherland explained that she landed here in 1906, and her husband recently celebrated 60 years of residence here.

Pink and white chrysanthemums and potted plants decorated the banquet tables. Later, the floor of the main hall room was cleared for dancing, when Mel Meredith and his Hayloft Sextet played. Old time reels, square dances, waltzes and minuets were featured with a bit of the modern for spice.

His Honor Lt.-Gov. J. C. Bowen and Mrs. Bowen, were present. Mrs. Bowen wore a becoming gown of midnight blue velvet, complimented by an orchid en corsage.

In charge of arrangements for the event were George H. Hyan, John McDougall and J. A. McCool. Seated at the head table with His Honor and Mrs. Bowen were Mayor John W. Fry, and Mrs. Fry; Leishman McNeill, Miss Etta McLeod, the Rev. Alex Stewart, Mrs. D. G. McQueen, J. J. Duggan, Mrs. James Hay, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ottewell, J. C. McDougall, E. A. Shelley, Mrs. J. J. Duggan, James Hay, Alf Brown, Sam Dickson, Miss Marion McNeill, Mr. and Mrs. John W. West.

Welcoming the guests were members of the executive of the association and well known old timers.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Moore were honored recently at a farewell surprise party held at their home. They will leave soon to take up residence in Rimbey.

Barley and Rye Sell at Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Nov. 16—(CP)—Export trade reported today on the Winnipeg grain exchange included purchase of 400,000 bushels of malting grades barley and 200,000 bushels of rye by United States interests. Oat sales to the United Kingdom, reported yesterday at 1,250,000 bushels, were revised to 2,000,000 bushels.

Rye futures prices finally succumbed to lower trends at Chicago and dropped a cent or more under previous closing levels after posting advances of ½ cent in early trade in the coarse grain pit. The futures closed 1⅜-1⅛ lower with the Dec. 1.08⅝, May 1.07⅛, July 1.04⅞.

Chicago interests were good buyers throughout the session with locals on the selling side and commission houses on both sides of the market.

LONDON STOCKS

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP-Reuter)—The prominent feature of the stock market today was the firmness of Richard Thomas, which was sixpence higher at 14 shillings and sixpence with the preference shares one shilling and sixpence higher at 36 shillings and sixpence on the news that this leading South Wales tinplate organization will absorb Baldwins, Ltd., a steel and tinplate business also possessing collieries.

Industrials met fairly widespread demand with interest centred on textiles, some breweries and tobaccos, while some other bright spots also developed.

South African gold mines were again steadier, helped by higher Cape advices, but business in this section was on a small scale.

British funds and rails were rather quiet in the absence of interest.

LIVESTOCK TRAFFIC

EDMONTON, Nov. 16—Total receipts of cars trucked, driven and shipped by rail to local livestock agencies: Cars 11, cattle 271, calves 85, hogs 605, sheep 79.

Shipments on Nov. 14: To Eastern Canada, 2 cars cattle, 1 car hogs; to country points, 1 car cattle; to U.S.A. points, 1 car sheep.

Man Breaks Leg In Loading Coal

"Coal troubles" reached into the home of a Lacombe resident Wednesday afternoon, putting 21-year-old Mervin Salaski in the Misericordia hospital here, suffering from a broken leg.

Salski, it was stated, had waited for fuel to be delivered to him, and for two days was without any heating at all. He decided Wednesday to try and take sufficient home to tide him over, and came to Edmonton.

It was while loading coal at the Kent mine that he received the broken leg. He was taken to hospital by Smith's ambulance.

Service Concert Is Planned Here

A concert for all service personnel and their friends will be given Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in the Canadian Legion Hut on Kingsway.

Inez Macdonald will present a program which will include a dancing revue by the Juneau School of Dancing, assisted by such well known Edmonton artists as Cathryn Zender, pianist and soprano; Betty Powers, contralto; Jack Jones, comedian. Highland dancers Betty Cairney, Jessie Stewart and Iola Milne will present several specialty numbers, accompanied by Piper J. Milne.

Only Corn Holds Steady at Chicago

CHICAGO, Nov. 16—(AP)—A permit system limiting corn shipments to Chicago steadied the futures market for that grain today but other prices were substantially lower with wheat and rye suffering greatest losses.

Wheat broke sharply at the opening and, save for a slight rally near mid-session, held well below the previous close. At times losses ranged to nearly a cent despite the fact cash wheat is near ceiling levels and country offerings were small.

At the close wheat was ⅝-1⅛ lower, corn was unchanged to ¼ higher, oats were off ½-1⅛, rye was down 1¼-2⅛ and barley was off ⅛-¾.

Sharp Decline In Aluminum Output Feared

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—(CP)— The Aluminum Company of Canada, Limited, said in a statement issued her yesterday that "the deferment of United States government orders had reduced Canadian Aluminum production by about one-fourth" and that 'now the United Kingdom has decided to curtail orders to an extent which will cause Canadian aluminum production to drop to less than half of the present rate."

The statement said that 'it was to be expected that any form of production which expanded so greatly to meet war needs would shrink severely during the period of transition from war to peace time conditions.

MAJORITY EXPORTED

"Aluminum production would be particularly vulnerable because even before the war Canada consumed a very small part of the aluminum it produced. The greater part was sold in foreign countries and until commercial world trade can be re-established, peace time sales of aluminum cannot even be resumed, much less expanded to a greater volume than formerly."

The statement added however that "Aluminum Company of Canada's officials do not expect aluminum production to drop, even temporarily, to the pre-war level."

"They hope that business can be built up to the point where the demand for aluminum overseas will far out-strip former peace time demands."

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Arthur MacNamara director of National Selective Service, said last night that the Aluminum Company of Canada will lay off a large force of men, possibly 2,500, in five plants in Quebec's Arvida district by Dec. 10 and many will be absorbed into the army or essential work. The lay-off results from lessened demand for aluminum.

Attempt Is Made Assassinate Keitel

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—An attempt was made to assassinate Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel during his recent visit to the Hungarian front, the Moscow radio said in a broadcast today. The broadcast quoted a report from Geneva that rumors current in Switzerland say Keitel was wounded and returned to Berlin without visiting Budapest as planned.

Canadian Exports Higher This Year

OTTAWA, Nov. 16. — (AP) — Canadian merchandise exports during the first 10 months of 1944 totalled $2,861,000,000 compared with 2,379,000,000 during the same period last year, Trade Minister MacKinnon announced yesterday "Our export trade with both the United Kingdom and the United States during the first 10 months of this year exceeded $1,000,000,000, the increases over 1943 being substantial," said Mr. MacKinnon.

Advance in Italy Said Impressive

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Col. F. X. Jennings of Saint John, N.B., army director of Public Relations, back from European battlefronts, said yesterday in an interview that the dogged, persistent advance of Canadian and other Allied troops in Italy was one of his most vivid impressions of the overseas fighting.

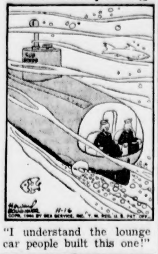

In the last 14 months the Allies had advanced 500 miles—an average of 1½ miles daily over the toughest kind of terrain. There were sheer mountains with narrow roads spiralling through them, nothing but narrow shelves overhanging deep and virtually impassable gorges, mined and blown by the enemy at almost every turn, thousands of bridges demolished; gun emplacements, machine gun nests, anti-tank guns spotted around every shoulder.

"I tell you, once you have seen the terrain over which they advanced, you would marvel that they were able to dislodge the Hun at all," he said.

Favor "Big Three" Meet in Britain

LONDON, Nov. 16—(CP-Reuter)—Prime Minister Churchill was told in the House of Commons today that he "has certainly done his troubadoring" in connection with meetings of the "Big Three" and the next such gathering should be held in Britain since Mr. Churchill has paid two visits to Moscow and four to North America.

"This point has occurred to me and my colleagues several times," Mr. Churchill replied.

One member asked: "Does the Prime Minister realize that most people in this country feel he has certainly done his troubadoring and they would regard it as a graceful gesture if President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin would agree to come to this country?"

The Prime Minister said: "These matters have to be worked out as best they can. We have to realize we may have views in this country but working with a great number of powerful allies we have to sometimes recognize that our views have to yield to those of other people."

United Kingdom Farm Delegation To Visit Canada

By FRANK LOWE

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(CP)—Envisaging a post-war world of stability and security for primary producers, a six-man delegation from the National Farmers' Union of England and Wales, Scotland and Ulster, will visit Canada late this winter to talk over with Dominion agricultural leaders just how this object may be obtained.

Practical farmers all, these six already have set out on their mission which they hope will promote co-ordination and co-operation among the agriculturists of the Empire. Their first stop will be New Zealand, then Australia, with Canada their final port of call before they return to Britain to report to the NFU on what steps must be taken to realize their post-war aims.

U.K. to Revive Exports Before Japs Defeated

By C. T. HALLINAN

LONDON, Nov. 16.—(BUP)— Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today that the United Kingdom will begin the changeover from military to civilian production as soon as Germany has been defeated, using the interim period before Japan is beaten to revive its export trade and re-equip its industries for the post-war competition.

Questioned in the House of Commons on the government's post-war planning, Churchill said there would be no let-down in production of war equipment needed for the defeat of Japan, but he asserted that some of the nation's industrial facilities could be shifted to peace-time work once Germany has been disposed of.

"After the defeat of Germany it will be possible and necessary to turn over an increasing part of our resources to civilian production," he said. "Then we must make exertions to restore our export trade and re-equip our industry."

CONTROLS NEEDED

Churchill said strict controls over industry and manpower would have to be maintained in Britain during the interim between the defeat of Germany and the end of the Pacific war.

"Many of the wartime controls over raw materials, industrial capacity, agriculture food, transport and so forth will likewise be as necessary in this period as they are today," he said.

He promised, however, that these controls will be relaxed whenever circumstances permit the government to do so without hampering the war effort or upsetting the stability of the national economy.

Churchill told the house that the shortage of housing facilities also must be grappled with on an emergency as well as a permanent basis.

Repair of Port Major Victory

MARSEILLE, Nov. 16.—(AP)— One of the major victories of the war has been won at this sprawling port where, despite diabolical destruction by the Germans, thousands of tons of supplies now are pouring through to the western front. In a little more than 20 weeks after the capture of this port with its 22½ miles of quays, huge convoys of ships are moving in and out of the repaired berths, carrying men and supplies. As many as 100 ships have been in the harbor at one time.

THE fight against V.D. is a family affair . . .

A laughing couple, dodging showers of rice . . . fireside . . . garden . . . chubby babies . . .

These are scenes we know and like, because they're part of our lives . . . because they spell happiness . . . contentment.

But we know that these things don't "just happen." They have to be worked for, lived for. Protected, too, because of ever-present dangers which may spoil them.

Venereal Disease is a spoiler. In a cold, relentless way it can kill infants, rob the home of its breadwinner, cripple, destroy. These are not mere possibilities. THEY HAPPEN . . . RIGHT HERE IN CANADA!

But, these things should never happen. They can be prevented.

Young men and women can safeguard their future happiness together by making sure before marriage that V.D. will not blight their plans. A medical examination, including a blood test for syphilis, is a protection no couple can afford to pass up.

The expectant mother, too, may know for sure that her baby will be all she dreamed of. Syphilis in the expectant mother rarely shows outward signs, and it is no respecter of persons. An early check-up by her doctor, including a blood test, is a most essential, yet simple, first step in protecting her baby's health.

Nor must the breadwinner neglect his part. The security of the home depends upon his ability to work regularly and efficiently. Unsuspected syphilis, striking in middle life, may make the head of the home unable to provide for his family. It is wise to KNOW FOR SURE in time. Industrial medical examinations should include a routine confidential blood test.

A blood test should not be looked upon as something unusual. It should be regarded for what it is . . . a normal safeguard of health, security and happiness.

May Delay Transfer Scarcity of Buses

Possibility that the change over of the street railway system from street car service to trolley bus on the high level route will be delayed considerably into the post-war period was expressed Thursday by City Commissioner R. J. Gibb, who returned Wednesday from a tour of the eastern United States and Canada.

He said that review of conditions in the United States and Canada showed that materials were scarce, and that trolley buses would be difficult to obtain in the immediate post-war period without special priority. He added that the Dominion transit controller would grant no further priorities to Edmonton.

TO MAKE REPORT

Mr. Gibb said that in the light of this situation the entire street railway change over set up was being further studied and a report would be made shortly to city council.

Legion to Demand Minister Resign

Resolution demanding the resignation of Hon. Louis St. Laurent, minister of justice, is likely to come before next Sunday's general meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, BESL.

It was learned Thursday that a draft of a resolution asking that Mr. St. Laurent be dropped from the cabinet is being worked on by Legion officials.

The resolution, in its present form, contends that the minister of justice, through publicly-expressed opposition to conscription for overseas service, is deliberately flouting the expressed wishes of the majority of the people of Canada.

Killer Confesses

Two Women Found Slain, Mutilated in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Horribly mutilated, the nude bodies of two women were found in separate downtown hotels yesterday and last night police said they had obtained a confession from Otto Steve Wilson, 31, whom they arrested while sipping wine in a nearby bar.

Detective Lieut. L. J. Hurst said Wilson at first denied any connection with the killings but later broke down and admitted he had ripped both women to death.

Patrolman H. E. Lonlan recognized Wilson from a description furnished by hotel employees. He walked behind Wilson and slipped handcuffs on him.

Detective Lieut. Harry Hansen said Wilson had been identified by fingerprints as the slayer of 25-year-old Virgie Lee Griffin and Lillian Johnson. The bodies of both women had been mutilated.

Hansen also said Fred O'Briant, hotel bellhop, had identified Wilson as the man who registered with Miss Johnson as man and wife.

Authorities said Wilson had been arrested before on charges of attempted rape. He was taken into custody late yesterday within a few blocks of both downtown hotels where the slayings occurred.

BODIES DISCOVERED

Miss Johnson's body was discovered in a hotel a few hours after that of Miss Griffin was found in another hotel several blocks away.

"This is the most fiendish crime in my 19 years of experience here." said Detective Lieut. Harry Hansen. "It is worse than the Winnie Ruth Judd case."

The body of Miss Griffin was found by a maid in the hotel. It was lying in a clothes closet. Nearby was a knife with a nine-inch blade. Investigating officers said the slayer also had used several razor blades in the mutilation.

Search was directed for a man about 33 years old who, hotel employees said, registered with the woman Tuesday afternoon as "Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Wilson of Steubenville, Ind."

The man was described as five feet, 10 inches tall, wearing a brown tweed sport coat and dark trousers.

Hotel workers said the man appeared to be sober, "but the girl seemed to be under the influence of liquor or drugs and the man apologized for her condition." The couple had no baggage when they registered.

Clothing Officials Are City Visitors

Making a tour of Western Canada to acquaint retail clothing merchants of the present and potential supply situation, and to dispel some of the feeling that exists regarding inequitable supplies between the east and west, Warren K. Cook, Toronto, chairman, National Council of Canadian Clothing Manufacturers, and president of the Warren K. Cook Co., Ltd., arrived in Edmonton Thursday to address meetings of retail merchants here. He is accompanied by James Cameron, Toronto, president of the Ontario Association of Retail Men's Wear Merchants.

Thursday at noon Mr. Cameron addressed a meeting of retailers at a luncheon at the Macdonald hotel, and in the evening he was scheduled to speak to members of the trade at a dinner meeting.

Also to be discussed at these meetings will be a plan to devise ways and means of assuring supplies of clothing and furnishings to men of the armed forces being demobilized.

Minute Make-Ups

Skin looking dull? Lines showing up? Do some fast work. Spread on a generous layer of vanishing cream (of course, your skin must be clean). Stroke and pat the cream into the little lines and furrows. Relax for a minute. Now remove your cream. Use the film on your skin as a base for your make-up. Follow this plan every day for a week—see results!

Before the Magistrate

Smiles faded from the faces of two young men, Thursday morning, when they were sentenced to terms of imprisonment for the first time in their lives, by Magistrate Harold L. Hawe, KC.

Carl E. Olsen, who pleaded guilty to two charges of theft, and who only a few weeks before had promised the court he would go out and work if given an opportunity, was sentenced to three months on each count, with terms to run concurrently. Instead of getting work, he had wandered the streets, the court was told.

Nick Poburan, with three charges against him, was sentenced to three months on each of two charges of theft and three more for assaulting a Chinese businessman. The first two terms were ordered to run consecutively.

William Dribnenki, found guilty of dangerous driving, was assessed $15 or 20 days.

Pleading guilty to contributing to the delinquency of a child, Joseph Cyr of Edmonton was fined $50 or two months with hard labor.

Objections to proceeding with the case against Ivan Erickson and Irene Suckling, both charged with contributing to delinquency, were raised by defense counsel, who advised that no plea was being entered.

Counsel contended that morality officers had no right to enter premises without a search warrant, or even with one, as had been done at night. The case was adjourned to Nov. 21.

Bank clearings through the Edmonton Clearing House for the week ended Nov. 16 amounted to $10,296,060.84 as against $9,788,646.96 for the corresponding week last year.

Junior Chamber Making Survey Of Businesses

Edmonton Junior Chamber of Commerce was chosen to conduct a survey study of wholesale and retail industries in the city, part of a province-wide study of post-war plans, T. Leonard Aldridge, president, told members of the organization who met in the Macdonald hotel Wednesday night to participate in the annual "stag" party. The survey is being made with a view of assisting in the rehabilitation of men returning from overseas.

The announcement was the sole item of business for the evening, for it was the Jaycees' night for frivolity, with Tom Fisk as master of ceremonies.

Those contributing to a variety program were Len Buchanan and Jim Thompson with vocal solos; Dick Sherwin, accordionist; Jack Toulson, with piano and vocal numbers, and John Jones, whose clever wit provoked rollicking laughter. A "Victory song," written by Mr. Jones, was offered for the first time in public, and received a big hand.

About 100 persons were in attendance, with Chief Constable Reg. Jennings and Staff-Sgt. Alex Riddell of the city police force as special guests.

The program was followed by a banquet, while the balance of the evening was devoted to cards.

Ex-Senator Dies

PRESCOTT, Ariz., Nov. 16.—(AP)—Smith W. Brookhart, for eight years United States senator from Iowa and long one of the foremost champions of the American farmer, died yesterday in Arizona where he had retired because of failing health in 1943. He was 75.

Pilot Is Decorated For Mercy Flight

FO. Joseph Coombes of North West Air Command here, who has been decorated with the Air Force Cross for his services in flying a mercy flight into the northland, is shown above with Cpl. L. V. Toutant who was with him on an earlier flight when they rescued 17 United States soldiers who were stranded on northern ice.

Three Are Honored for Courage In Rescuing Expectant Mother

The pilot of an RCAF communications flight aircraft at Northwest Air Command, an RC AF medical officer, and nursing sister, who together rescued an expectant mother from a flooded northern district in July, have been honored for their courage on that occasion.

The pilot, Flying Officer Joseph Coombes, of Prince Albert, Sask., has been awarded the Air Force Cross. Flt.-Lt. R. W. Burnap, of 9820 106 street, Edmonton medical officer at Northwest Air Command, and Nursing Sister H. M. Brown, formerly stationed in Edmonton, and now serving overseas, have both received commendation from His Majesty, The King.

The three have received telegrams of congratulation from the Honorable C. G. Power, PC, minister of national defence for air and Air Marshal Robert Leckie, CB, DSO, DSC, DFC, chief of the Canadian air staff.

DISTRESS CALL

The flight for which the awards have been made was carried out on July 14, this year, when Northwest Air Command authorities received a distress call from the flooded Shoal Creek district of the Pembina river, where an expectant mother was in urgent need of hospitalization but could not be brought out by road owing to severe mud conditions in the region.

FO. Coombes, Flt.-Lt. Burnap and Nursing Sister Brown made the trip from Edmonton in a Norseman aircraft, landed in an improvised field, and brought the woman safely back to Edmonton, although the aircraft was damaged in taking off from the runway which had been cut through low scrub by volunteer local residents. The baby, which was safely delivered at the University hospital in Edmonton, has been christened Joseph in honor of FO. Coombes.

Both FO. Coombes, who left Edmonton Tuesday for a transport pilot's course in Eastern Canada, and Flt. Lt. Burnap, were greatly surprised when they were given news of their awards by AVM T. A. Lawrence, air officer commanding Northwest Air Command.

"All the eredit goes to Joe Coombes," Flt.-Lt. Burnap said Thursday. "It was his brilliant flying which got the woman safely to hospital. I was very surprised to hear that I had been given recognition because I don't believe that I did anything to deserve it. But it's great to know that Joe Coombes has been decorated, because he certainly earned it."

FORMER BUSH FLIER

FO. Coombes who began bush flying into the country north of Prince Albert, in 1938, after learning to fly at the Winnipeg Flying Club, joined the RCAF in June, 1940, and served as instructor at elementary and service flying training schools before being posted to the Northwest Staging Route in May, 1945. Last month he made a 4,500-mile round trip into the regions on the northwest shore of Hudson Bay to bring out 17 U.S. Army weather men after an American ferry aircraft had been damaged during fierce storms on the water of the bay.

Flt.-Lt. Burnap was an interne at the University hospital in Edmonton before joining the RCAF as a medical officer.

North Alberta Pioneers Hold Annual Affair

a dream of what might be, and they came with vision and courage and determination to match their strength with a new world and carve homes for themselves and their families."

Referring to the future of this district as an air centre and to the vast mineral wealth of the northern areas, His Honor said he hoped the dreams and visions some of the old-timers still have would be fulfilled before they passed on, so they might see their confidence in the future of the land was justified.

A. E. Ottewell, registrar of the University of Alberta, was special guest speaker and recalled many an amusing incident of early days in Northern Alberta. He paid tribute to the pioneers and specifically to his brother, the late R. P. Ottewell, whose philosophy of life he said, characterized that of most old-timers.

"He used to tell me, 'if you can so live and behave that when you are through men can say the world is a little better place for your having been here, then you have nothing to worry about,'" the speaker said.

THREE QUALITIES

Mr. Ottewell said he thought old-timers had two or three qualities in common. He said they were all imperturbable, independent and co-operative people.

"We are now at a point where all the qualities of the pioneer, who made this country what it is, will be needed as never before," Mr. Ottewell said. "I am not one of those who can take it for granted that the world will be a better place when the war is won. It will be different—but not necessarily better."

Mr. Ottewell pointed out that humanity stands at the threshold of a change which is global in scope and said "for the first time in history we are all in the same boat."

He said he was not in favor of a soft peace and that the Germans, who had degraded so many millions of people and lowered them to a standard of which even beasts would be ashamed, must be punished.

POISONOUS HATRED

"Never before has there been damned up such poisonous hatred, ready to be loosed as soon as the imminent danger of the war is passed and if we let it engulf us the change will most certainly be for the worse."

"Punishment must be meted out in a spirit of equity and justice," he said, "if hatred is the motive which activates us then we descend to the level of those we seek to punish. It will take all the qualities of steadfastness, courage and vision if the change for the better, that we all pray for and strive to be."

E. A. Shelley, president of the Southern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association, from Calgary brought greetings from the sister organization.

SPECIAL GUESTS

Other special guests seated at the head table included Mrs. J. C. Bowen, Mayor John Fry and Mrs. Fry, Mrs. A. E. McDougall, Leishman McNeill of Calgary Old-Timers' Association, Miss Ida McLeod, the Rev. Alex Stewart who asked the blessing; Mrs. D. G. McQueen, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Duggan, Mr. and Mrs. James May, Mrs. A. E. Ottewell, Alfred Brown, S. A. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. John W. West, and Miss Marie McNeill.

In the absence of president George H. Ryan, J. C. McDougall, vice-president, acted as toastmaster.

James McCool, secretary, was in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Wound Death Rate Is Only Half That Of First Great War

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Paris, Nov. 16.—(AP)—The rate of death from combat wounds in this war has been reduced to a little more than half what it was in the First Great War, Maj.-Gen. Albert W. Kenner, chief ASH medical officer, said yesterday.

He said this was accomplished though 55 to 60 per cent of the injuries in this war were due to high explosive artillery and mortar fire. In the First Great War 60 per cent of the casualties were caused by small arms fire.

The mortality rate from battle wounds is running under four per cent of the total injured. In the last war it was from seven to eight per cent.

Losses from forgeries in the U.S. now total more than $250,000,000 annually.
